MOUNT IDA SCHOOL.

The various events of commencement at the Mount Ida school have taken place the past week and have been the most successful in the history of the school. The closing recital by the pupils of the music department was held at the school, Saturday evening under the direction of Prof. Louis C. Stanton, teacher of piano and Arthur Thayer, teacher of voice. Those participating were the Misses Ona Hanson, Onota Schaffer, Adelaide Allen, Marion E. Boyd, Mollie F. Litchfield, Helen Ferguson, Florence Ferguson, Loretta Sheffer, Ruth E. Garver, Alice M. Hastings, Mabelle Sawyer and Christine Toim. Sunday afternoon at four-thirty the Baccalaureate service was held at Channing church, the sermon being by the pastor, Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, who took for the subject of his discourse, "The Things that Abide." The church choir rendered several anthems and the congregation participated in the responsive reading and the hymns. Monday evening at the Hunnewell club a representative gathering of relatives and friends filled the assembly hall to see the presentation of Alfred Lord Tennyson's, "The Princess," by the senior class, under the direction of Bertha Everett Morgan. The character parts were artistically portrayed by the Misses Ona Hanson, Mary Christian, Ida Blackford, Marjorie Metcalf, Onota Schaffer, Ruth Garver, Helen Ferguson, Florence Lawrence, Bertrice Dickerman, Miriam Diefenderfer, Mabelle Sawyer, Harriet Cranska, Katharine Drake, Christine Toim, Clara Baily, Clara Burdick, Grace Loucks, Gertrude MacChesney, Vivian Engelhart, Molly Litchfield, Katharine Drake and Rose Timkin. The annual banquet of the Alumni of the school was held at the Hotel Lenox, Boston, Tuesday noon and the graduation exercises followed in the evening. Rev. Edward Cummings made an address on, "The Art of Living," and the school rendered several songs. At the close of the program Professor Jewett and the members of the faculty held a reception for an hour.

The graduates were: Marjorie Estella Metcalf, Vivian Catharine Engelhart, Miriam Cole Diefenderfer, Rose Marie Timkin, Ruth Elizabeth Garver, Emily Gertrude MacChesney, Harriet Atwood Cranska, Ona Lillian Hanson, Onota Schaffer, Ida Mae Blackford, Mary Davis Christian, Martha Grace Loucks, Beatrice Ellen Dickerman, Mabelle Louise Sawyer, Florence Margaret Lawrence, Clara Frances Bailey, Helen Matilda Ferguson, Mary Frances Litchfield, Clara Morse Burdick, Catharine Lorraine Drake, Christine Louise Toim.

FESSENDEN SCHOOL.

Graduating exercises at the Fessenden school, Newtonville, took place Wednesday afternoon in the school gymnasium, following annual athletic events which occupied the early part of the day.

In the golf finals R. A. Lancaster of Worcester defeated W. A. Clark of New York, 4 up and 3. C. M. Pardee beat R. J. Jewett in tennis finals, 6-3, 8-6, 6-1. In the track events H. Fessenden won the junior broad jump, 15 ft. 3 in., and the other events resulted as follows:

Junior 50-yard dash—Won by Ranney, 6 s; junior 220-yard dash—Won by Sweeney, 25 s; senior broad jump—Won by F. Pardee, 16 ft. 1 in; 100-yard dash—Won by Jewett, 11 2/3 s; senior 200-yard dash—Won by Roquemore, 24 3/4 s; senior 440-yard run—Won by Jewett, 1m. 6 s. A relay race between the seniors and juniors was won by the junior team, comprising Larry, Pratt, Ranney and Sweeney, in 1m. 14 2/5 s.

Richard Parkhurst of Worcester won the prize speaking, his subject being, "The Angels of Beuna Vista." D. B. Douglass won second prize, and the other speakers were W. A. Clark, C. M. Pardee, M. L. Corey, R. T. Williams and R. J. Jewett. The judges were John G. Anderson of Cambridge and Mrs. P. F. Williams of West Newton.

In the formal exercises prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. W. E. Strong, piano selections were given by Miss Louise Fessenden, Mansfield Levy and Hart Fessenden, violin solos by Miss Pyffe and an address on, "The Fourfold Life" by Rev. Albert Hammett of Newtonville.

SCHOOL SESSIONS.

By direction of the School Committee, the Superintendent of Schools will soon canvass the Newton district to learn the preference of the parents regarding a change in the school sessions. For five years the children of this district have been compelled to attend a one session of five hours each school day. This plan involves a severe strain upon the physical and mental health of the child, and there has been and still is a strong sentiment against it in the district. Children who live beyond the immediate vicinity of the school are compelled to take a lunch, which is eaten under circumstances far from homelike, and usually in a hasty and unhealthy manner. Indeed the lunch is one of the serious charges against the present plan. Dr. Spaulding, the superintendent of schools goes into the matter at length in his last annual report and states that "this (Bigelow) plan was a mistake, a serious mistake—that in these districts the two session plan would be decidedly better." Mr. J. D. Miller, a member of the state board of Education writes, "My experience as a teacher forces me to believe that one session brings a loss, educational, physically, and morally." Dr. Edward M. Hartwell of Boston has stated his belief that one reason why the German teachers are able to get so much more work out of the students is to be found in the prevalence of two daily sessions. He also adds that "it has seemed to me that the five hour single session plan has been largely adopted to suit the convenience of the teachers without having sufficient regard to the bodily and mental welfare of the pupils."

With these opinions from men competent to judge, it would seem as if the parents in the Newton district ought not to hesitate to change. The present system is injurious to the child, and disturbs the domestic routine of many households, and to what end—that a few parents may have their children with them on afternoons, to be taught dancing, music and the like. The new plan allows two full afternoons each week, enough for the dancing and music lessons, as well as for afternoon trips away from home. It does not subject the children to severe strain, either physically or mentally. It allows luncheon to be eaten at home under the eyes of the parents, and in every way is far better for both pupils and parents.

We trust that every parent, when called upon by Dr. Spaulding to express an opinion, will vote in favor of the change.

BIENNIAL NOTES

Club members who have Biennial tickets which they cannot use will return them to the president of their own club at once, as they are not transferable except among members of their own club.

Delegates and alternates attend the same sessions, but do not sit together. The delegates will sit under banner of their own state. Alternates may occupy delegates' seats when delegates cannot be present. Alternates' badges are not transferable.

A few changes have necessarily been made in the program. The duplicate meeting announced for Thursday afternoon, June 25, will be held on Tuesday, June 30. The tickets for the earlier date will be valid to the session on June 30. There will be no overflow meeting on Friday evening, June 26, but the ticket for that meeting at Chickering Hall will admit holder to one in Symphony Hall on the same evening.

Massachusetts delegates will be entitled to the trip to Rhode Island on Friday, June 26, although it has been previously announced to the contrary.

The guide book which will be given to the visiting delegates is one that has been used for previous conventions, but has been brought up to date and will contain an introduction by Miss Helen A. Whittey, former president of the Massachusetts Federation. Members of all committees will have tickets admitting to the afternoon sessions.

NEW ENGLAND WOMEN'S CLUB

A notable event in the history of women's clubs was the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the New England Women's Club which was observed at the South Congregational Church, Boston, on the evening of May 27, the fifteenth year of the Massachusetts State Federation being noted at the same time. Mrs. May Alden Ward, vice president of the New England Club and president of the Federation, occupied the chair. In welcoming the guests she stated that the two organizations bear the relation of mother and daughter to one another, the initiative for forming the Federation having been taken at the time of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the New England Club, when twenty clubs were invited to join with it in forming the Federation. In closing her remarks Mrs. Ward said, "In the name of the mother I welcome the daughter and in the name of the daughter I accept the hospitality of the mother."

Rev. Edward Cummings, minister of the South Congregational Church, presented the greeting of the church, saying that he was glad to reciprocate and welcome the club women to that place, since he had so often been welcomed by them to their meetings. He humorously suggested that he wished they would come every day and that they need not come themselves to week days. He congratulated the women's clubs upon the manner in which they have distanced the men's clubs, on their growth in usefulness and efficiency and the way in which they have taken hold of the problems of social service. First, you have thought, then believed and then acted. He pointed out various ways in which he thought they might still be of service, one being the getting rid of the bill boards. Take hold of the problem and cultivate sentiment against them. The record of the clubs is a phenomenon equal to considering the time in which they have been at work.

Miss Lucia M. Peabody, the first secretary of the New England Women's Club and a charter member, was next introduced. Owing to delicate health she merely extended a few words of greeting and congratulation, her paper on "The Origin of the Club" being read by Miss Mary Ladd. In this paper it was stated that the first public meeting of the club was held on May 30, 1868. The club laid plans for many things which in itself it was unable to carry out, but have since been made practical by the larger organization of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. Of some of the things which it has been instrumental in furthering may be mentioned: the placing of women upon school boards; the securing of school suffrage for women, while vacation schools were early suggested.

Mrs. Judith W. Smith, senior vice-president and a woman well along in her eighties, was presented as a member who combines the experience of years with the enthusiasm of youth. She expressed the hope that every club woman of the future will be noted for her tolerance for those of differing opinions and for neighborliness. An early communication setting forth the plans and object of the club was read by the chairman. All the Federation presidents have up to this time come from the New England Women's Club, but Miss Helen A. Whittey was the only one present. She spoke briefly of "Federation Development."

The chief speaker of the evening was Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York, president of Sorosis, and past president of the New York State Federation, whose subject was "The Club Woman's Part and Her Partners."

It is indeed a signal day when two pioneer women's clubs of America come together in the bosom of a family in the midst of their descendants, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, to give greeting to each other, after forty years of active work. Forty years is a long period. Stop and think a minute how far back forty years takes us. It was not so long after the war. Lincoln had been assassinated three years before, Andrew Johnson was president. There were no telephones, trolley cars, subways, or wireless doing. Many of us were not born. Some of us were little girls, careless, laughing, little girls very dependent upon mother. Some of us were old enough—just old enough—to join a club, a most aggressive and masculine thing to do—almost immodest—yet I do not see that the sweet womanliness of our oldest members has been injured in the least by forty years of club membership.

The perspective of years looking backward foreshortens things wonderfully. Forty years behind us is as nothing compared to forty years ahead of us. To very few of us even yet does forty years seem like a tale that is told, like a summer day, like a dream in the night. Only to the wonderful president of the New England Women's Club, Julia Ward Howe, does it approach nearer to being a span, than to most here, and even she has had but two of such spans and nine years over. Her beautiful letter of fellowship sent to Sorosis on its fortieth birthday brought the two clubs very close together. Hand grasped hand across the miles between Boston and New York and club spirit spoke to club spirit with the old friendship of forty years. We have two living charter members, Charlotte B. Wilbour, and Ella Dietz Clymer Glover.

You know the man that was asked to describe his experience at the blowing up of the Maine, and he said, "We were all in the ship and a suddenly there was a great noise, and then the nurse said, 'Sit up and take this.'"

Forty years to most of us is not quite such a sudden jump as that, yet it seems a long time, ago. It takes birthdays to make us look back until we can feel again grandmother's love and mother's tenderness. Even the baby fingers of our own little ones are many of them back among the old birthdays. Do you remember the day you were six years old how large you felt? And twelve years old, why what a proper child you had to be after that, and sixteen years old, why you were entirely grown up, there was really only a little of life left.

If the birthday is so much to each one of us alone, how much more is it if we happen to be twins. There is so much more in life when it is shared by another of the same age, same desires, ambitions and hopes. These two old clubs, the New England Women's Club of Boston and Sorosis of New York are practically twins. They are just about as much alike as the usual twins, having some traits very much in common and some differing widely, but each has an eye single for women's advancement, and here the two stand at their fortieth anniversaries side by side, meeting and greeting with their children and grand children around them. Old friends are best, so the tie between these two unique old friends is very close.

What is the use of the club? Wherein is its strength? Where was the strength of the old patriarchal families? It lay in organization. Jacob made a corporate body of his family and descendants, with a definite head to be obeyed, and with hands to carry out the orders and it grew to be a great nation.

We know the intricate mechanics of a human being. It is an organism, each part dependent on the others, and all obeying the single mind or will. A cubic yard of stone is a definite body, but unorganized, therefore it is powerless in itself, inert and without use, save as some power manipulates it. Ten women living in one block, but not in touch with each other are like the stone, an aggregation of particles, but without force as a body having no center of active power. But a club is a corporate body, an organized being, capable through the central power of doing many things.

There is a great difference in these organized bodies. Some are mere jelly-fish. They manage to hang together in a mass, and to draw enough sustenance from those around them to keep them alive, that's about all. The tie in this kind of a club is rather loose. Large pieces of the jelly-fish may be cut away without much loss. Mere feeding is hardly living. Such clubs do little and what little they do is only for themselves, which is not conducive to much growth beyond a certain point.

Do you know any such clubs? They do not as a rule belong to federations. That old question "What could we get for it?" which they always ask is indicative enough of their character. But a club like the New England Women's Club or like Sorosis, these old twin sisters, have a tie among the members which only those who have felt it know. Mr. Cummings said he went to Rhode Island to praise Massachusetts. I have come to Boston to praise Sorosis. New members are a few months in Sorosis say to me, "I had no idea there could be such a spirit in any club." Our oldest members keep hold of their membership, clinging to that even after they have dropped all other outside obligations. We are all barnacles in the dear old club. Once there we stay till the end. Every year Sorosis sends out eight, ten or twelve of those sad little black-bordered cards that announce the passing of a member. The "Sorosis Beyond" numbers one hundred twenty-five already. It grows just about as fast as Sorosis here. We have admitted daughters and granddaughters of members, oftentimes the club pin being worn by one after the other, as the child takes the place of her mother. The jeweled pin now worn by the president of Sorosis during office was the pin of Jenny Cunningham Croly, presented to her by Sorosis herself and given back by her daughter to the club to be worn by the president in succession.

It is this tie of old friendship, old companionship, old comradeship, this deep grown loyalty in Sorosis, that makes it hold so strong upon its members. That beautiful pledge we take with every new member that comes in renews almost monthly the tie of the sisterhood. Perhaps you do not know our pledge, this is it:

"I will give my name to Sorosis to keep sacredly.
"I give my interest to Sorosis to make it worthy of support.
"I pledge myself to sustain the members of Sorosis in all worthy efforts and I will defend them against calumny.
"I will avoid doing anything that in full refutation of Sorosis.
"I will be a member of Sorosis as long as I can be useful to and receive benefit from the association."

Every sentence there is a tie to its members. I do not doubt that the New England Women's Club has the same strong tie among those who belong to it. Its president, with her white hair and fine old face, is the strongest of ties in herself. The years of service together, that make the difference between the jelly-fish sort of club and the barnacle. Our club has become our habit, and "Habit is habit," says Mark Twain, "and is not to be flung out of the window by any man, but coaxed down stairs a step at a time."

There are many clubs between the jelly-fish and barnacle types, many splendid, strong clubs, which "age cannot wither nor customs stale," and whose hold upon the member will grow stronger as the years go by. These are the valuable clubs and you will find most of them in the state federations and many in the General Federation. But the vast mass of jelly-fish clubs will melt away. Purely selfish things never last. They remind us of the small boy's version of the minister's text. He said it was, "Man are cold, but few are frozen."

So, many clubs are formed, but if you belong to one of the "frozen" ones, of the type that binds, it will mean more than you realize in your life.

Let us leave the club now and come down to the best type of club member, the kind we may all be if we will.

There is, of course, the ideal woman, the woman that nobody knows but everybody has heard of many times, mostly from husbands. John's wife is another, and another is the woman who can make such pies, whose house is always in perfect order even during housecleaning-time, who is never out at her club when she ought to be in case John should unexpectedly telephone, who never gets tired of having his maiden aunts and invalid sisters visit him, who is always asleep when he comes in at night, and never sees the clock when she is awake, and never says anything but, "Had a good time, dear?" even if he looks as if he had, and who drops immediately to sleep again; who always agrees perfectly with everybody, takes it for granted that things are her fault, and always lets you think so, too.

Yes, we've all heard of this ideal woman. John knows ever so many of them. His mother was one, you know. Especially in cooking, and his wife was another, and another is the wife of a friend way out West—she always lives a long way off, and nobody ever sees her—and another is the girl he DIDN'T marry, and she was ideal!

I think the ideal woman must be like forbidden fruit which the man said was, any old kind that's good but it's good only because it's forbidden. But these are John's ideal women, and we women know that the only ideal woman is the real woman. If you cannot be real and true and sincere and dependable, loving and forgiving, how can you be ideal? There isn't any glass, save the glass of time—and then it's too late—that will make you seem ideal if it isn't in you. There is no use trying to be one without the other. If you are real, never mind about the ideal. One of the best things I possess is that I know of to make the right kind of woman is to possess the right kind of face, with all that such a face implies behind it. Someone has covered the ground with this little couplet:

"Owen if you can, one of those well-known faces That brings the sunshine into life's shadowed places."

There are a number of ways of owning one of these welcome faces. The first face of this kind I ever owned was my mother's. Never was there a face so welcome in the shadowed places, and the shadowed places seemed to haunt it, to follow it for its sweet radiance. I basked in it when it was all the heaven I knew, and it is now in the heaven I seek. You cannot choose your mother's face; it is a kind of wonderful inheritance, that sweet old face with its fine wrinkles of forgotten pain, its gentle curve of long past laughter, its parallel lines of tender solicitude, its up and down marks of long years of earnest endeavor. No youthful unmarked face can ever have such peace upon it. You have an example of such a face in Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Another way to possess this kind of face is to marry it. You can really pick and choose the face you will marry, but always remember that it is on its best behavior when it comes to you. If it isn't a sunny face then, it will never be, and if you nevertheless take it, you might as well make up your mind to keep your heart down up in Jaeger flannels and your temper in—well, I think the most expensive ermine is perhaps the only thing that will keep it warm. But if the face you marry is a sunny one, and even if you yourself are a shadowed place, no hour will blossom into happiness so surely as the hour that daily brings him home to you.

Of course the best and surest way of owning this welcome face is to have it right under your own hat—not only under your new, dainty, flower-crowned Easter hat, but under your last year's re-trimmed old one as well. The really welcome face to be worth anything should be continuous, not intermittent. You have heard of two-faced people. I suppose they own but don't always wear their welcome face.

If you have one, it's a pity not to wear it all the time, for though it may not go out of style, yet if it is packed up in cotton and kept in a bandbox nobody will ever know you own one, and what is the good of having a beautiful thing if nobody knows it? Do with your sunny face as the girl did who had but one new dress and wore it on all occasions. It was blue, and wishing to make a good impression on her young man who had called to take her out, she said to her mother in his presence, "Oh, mother, what dress shall I wear? my new one or my blue one, or the one I wore last?" That's the way to use the welcome face—call it the new one, or the blue one, or the one you wore last, but wear every time.

Of course a face may not always be in full refutation; it has its degrees of sunshine. The hazy Indian summer, lovely as it is, is not so brilliant as the clear freshness of the spring and the beautiful late afternoon-time of the long, long shadows creeping over the grass is quite different from noontide with its little round shadow that only cuddles about your feet. An August face would be pretty hot all the year round, and May and June faces are almost too perfect to last. In the December visage the cold is crisp and cheery, and even an April countenance with a passing cloud—a passing one, I said—has its charm, perhaps all the sweeter at times for being intermittent.

Once more, if it seems to you that you have lost out of your life the thing that made your sunshine, and your heart is in reality a deeply shadowed place, bring up into your face the radiance of sweet memories of that which you have lost, the joy of having possessed it and the happiness of having had it so long. These bright memories are your own forever. Your face will then shine with the reflected sunshine of what was once your joy, as the clouds in the west are pink and salmon and rose-color, because although the sun has gone down, yet the radiant memory remains behind, and makes the otherwise gray twilight a symphony of soft color. Smile, even with the tears close by; they will not hinder the sunshine, for together they make life's beautiful rainbows. Such is the face of the dear lady of the eighty-ninth birthday, a joy to look at, even with the weight of all those years. But hers has been ever one of those welcome faces that bring the sunshine to life's shadowed places.

I have wandered somewhat afield from my study of the club woman, but with such an example before us I might talk long about the ideal and you would all know there was no need, for she was before you. The club woman blooms and blossoms in her middle age and in her old age, until it is more attractive and charming than her foolish fluttering girlhood ever was or ever could be. She not only progresses herself, but she assists in her club charities God's poor and unfortunate to do the same, as well as her fellowmembers. Her presence and her thought are as much a stimulant and inspiration to them as theirs are to her, and so she reaches toward the ideal. She develops herself and helps others. Each day she grows more like Tommy, who said the reason he grew so fast was because he was watered too much—he had to have a bath every morning. But she grows naturally and easily, not like a weed as the saying is, but like a beautiful flower.

Sorosis greets then the New England Women's Club on its fortieth anniversary. It greets the children of the clubs, united in the Massachusetts State Federation, but most of all it greets Julia Ward Howe on her eighty-ninth birthday as one of the great pioneers of women's advancement. How many miles back in progress would we now be if she had not been in the van. She who bore all the brunt and burden of opposition, whose every white hair means something done for women, whose every line in her dear old face means earnest work and vigorous effort for women's good. We give all you twin sisters warm right hand of fellowship on this your birthday, and may you have as many more as shall find you well and happy and in touch with those you love and with those who love her, who are legion the world over and who will still be legion in the years to come, for "truth is marching on."

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's absence was much regretted, but the announcement of the promise of her presence at the session the following morning reassured the delegates. A notable feature of the evening was the first public presentation of songs both male and female having been composed by Mrs. Howe and published in commemoration of her 89th birthday celebrated that day. Miss Marion Hay's rendering of them left nothing to be desired.

Following the program the guests were received informally in the vestry below where light refreshments were served.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MASSACHUSETTS STATE FEDERATION

The annual meeting of the State Federation was called to order by its president, Mrs. May Alden Ward, at the South Congregational Church, Boston, on the morning of May 28. All rose to greet Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the president of the hostess club, the New England Women's Club, as she was presented and remained standing during her welcome to the club women. Mrs. Howe said in part, "This is a good, useful, happy work. We have aroused public spirit and have learned how to make it available for the community. In the early days we were full of unresolved disorders, we were often set cornerwise with one another, but now the corners have all disappeared and we are united in the sacred purpose of making the world happier and better, we are what may be called a real sisterhood."

Mrs. Ward thanked the hostess for the inspiration given and said that no one is more responsible for fitting the corners together than Mrs. Howe herself.

Then followed a group of Mrs. Howe's songs by Miss Marion Hay with Mr. Hiram G. Tucker as accompanist.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, a daughter of Mrs. Howe, brought greetings from New Jersey. She said she could hardly tell whether she was a child or grown up as she listened to the songs she used to hear in her childhood.

Attention was then turned to the routine business of the annual meeting. The report of the clerk, Mrs. Effie S. Nowers, showed that the Federation numbers 241 clubs, with an individual membership of 36,772. The death of Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, a former vice-president, was noted. The year has been given up to the development of plans, the structure of which was made last year. While so much attention has been given to forming plans for the Biennial the work of the standing committees has not suffered. The treasurer's report showed the Federation to be in a good financial condition with a substantial balance in the treasury.

Mrs. Ward in her annual report stated that when she resumed the presidency for this one year after an interval of three years that she had had two fears, first, that after having been out of the work for a time she should feel herself a stranger, since the personnel changes so much in three years, and, secondly, that with the labor of preparations for entertaining the Biennial, it would be a year of inactivity in other directions, but neither of her fears had been realized. She had found no falling off of interest and the years had been fruitful in every department. At the request of the General Federation one new committee, the Literature committee, had been established. She counted among her blessings the chairman of the standing committees and expressed her pleasure in the fact that her last year of service had been the year of the Biennial.

Miss Georgie A. Bacon, chairman of the Local Biennial Board, then reported plans for the Biennial as they are being matured, the substance of which is given under the head of "Biennial Notes."

The rest of the sessions were given to the reports of the chairman of the standing committees a brief resume of which will be given next week.

The following list of officers was elected for the ensuing year.

President, Miss Georgie A. Bacon. Vice-presidents, Mrs. Caroline Stone Atherton, Roxbury, Mrs. Julia R. Aldrich, Boston, Mrs. Marion A. Crocker, Fitchburg, Mrs. Maria D. Whittey, Dorchester.

Clerk, Mrs. Effie S. Nowers, Winthrop; assistant clerk, Mrs. Daisy C. Porter, Boston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grace V. Hibbard, Milton; treasurer, Mrs. Katherine E. Flagg, Brockton.

Directors (term expires 1911)—Mrs. Flora P. Little, Bridgewater, Mrs. Minnie R. Mulligan, Natick, Mrs. Mily

The State Senate has passed the corporation tax bill to its third reading without even the trouble of a division, and Newton must resign itself to the fact that we shall lose something like $80,000 of our income for the present year, based on the receipts of 1907. This means, on our present valuation, something like an addition of $1.00 to the present tax rate. Taken in connection with other matters directly affecting our tax levy, it would seem as if the $18.00 tax rate and possibly more, predicted in our columns recently, would be a hard and fast reality. While one of our South side contemporaries has criticized us for venturing this prediction on the ground that its publication would hurt real estate in this city, we feel that the opposite effect is of more concern.
The fact that a high rate is inevitable will, we believe, help to relieve the pressure on our city government for civic improvements, and reconcile our own people to the economies which must be put into effect in city departments.

COSTELLO—COE

At St. Patrick's church, Watertown, Thursday morning occurred the marriage of Miss Irene Coe of that town to Dr. Francis J. Costello the well known dentist on Washington street.
Nuptial mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. J. S. Cullen and only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride on Elliot street. After a wedding trip through the west Dr. and Mrs. Costello will make their home on Morse street.

DANA—KIDDER

The wedding of Miss Edith M. Kidder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Kidder of Newton Centre, and Mr.
Ripley L. Dana of 533 Commonwealth avenue, took place last evening in the First Congregational church at Newton Centre, Rev. Edwin M. Noyes officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Morton C. Tuttle, who was married in the same church a year ago, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Stiles, Miss Hope Parks, Miss Alice Myers, Miss Maude Shattuck, Miss Linda Harding and Miss Winifred Rand.

The groom was attended by Mr.
Francis W. Dana. The ushers were Mr. Arthur Johnson, Mr. Edwin Kidder, Mr. Morton C. Tuttle, Mr. Kenneth Sills and Mr. John Small. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents at 115 Sumner street.
After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Dana will reside at 24 Westbourne road.

LASELL CONCERT.

The annual commencement concert by the senior class of Lasell seminary, Andover, was given last evening before a large number of parents and friends. The program included piano, violin, organ and vocal selections. Miss Genna Webb of the faculty gave vocal solos. The students who took part included the Misses Gallagher, von Ende, Milleson, Orcutt, Starr, Stanton, Baker, MacMurray, Crowe, Milleson, Rhelstrom, Byrnes, Sanders and Steward. The concert closed with two selections from "Stabat Mater" by the Orphean club.

GEORGE—CHIPMAN

A pretty home wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Ganse, Waban park, when Miss Marcia Chipman of Chicago became the bride of Prof. Russell George of Boulder, Col.
Miss Chipman is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Whitehouse Chipman of Chicago. Prof. George occupies the chair of geology in the university of Colorado at Boulder. He is also the Colorado state geologist and a mining expert of national reputation.

The house was prettily decorated.
The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Dr. Sumner Shearman of Jamaica Plain. Misses Elizabeth, Helen, Mary and Katharine Ganse, the four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ganse were bridesmaids.

Prof. and Mrs. George will spend their honeymoon on the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes. They will be at home in Boulder, Col., after July 1st.

HACKETT—KENRICK

The marriage of Mr. Leon Abbott Hackett of Andover, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Hackett, to Miss Florence May Kenrick of Franklin, N. H., took place Wednesday at high noon at the Kenrick farm in that town.

The decorations at the house were elaborate, consisting of ropes of mountain laurel and peonies, and the platform on which the bridal couple stood, was backed with solid roses throuth.
Rev. David P. Hatch of Franklin, N.
H., officiated.

The bride was gowned in a handsome costume of richly embroidered white chiffon over ivory satin, the bodice entirely covered with rose point, an heirloom from her mother's wedding, and she wore a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms. Her ornaments consisted of a circle of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. The maid of honor was Miss Mildred E. White of Winchendon and the bridesmaids were Miss Mary S. Ashley of Hackettstown, N. J., Misses Anne L. and Helen B. Phillips of Swampscott, Mass., and Miss Marion Hughes of Brookline, Mass.
Two of the maids wore pink chiffon over taffeta and carried pink sweet peas, while the others wore blue chiffon over blue taffeta and carried white sweet peas. Mr. Charles F. Breed of Lynn, Mass., was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Ernest M.
Parsons, Harvard '03, Carl F. Lovejoy, Harvard '04, Robert M. Bowen, Harvard '04 and Enos Sawyer of Franklin, N. H.

A reception followed the ceremony.
Mr. and Mrs. Hackett being assisted by Mrs. Charles Kenrick, Mr. and Mrs.
B. W. Hackett and the bridal party.
Mr. and Mrs. Hackett will make their residence in Franklin, N. H.

MILLER—COLTON

Miss Marie Louise Colton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S.
Colton of Newtonville was married last Wednesday evening to Mr. Carl G. M. Miller of Newtonville. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock at the Colton residence on Austin street.
Rev. Edward M. Noyes, D. D. of Newton Centre officiating. The bride was gowned in ivory white messaline satin with rose point lace, an heirloom of her grandmother, and carried brides roses. Miss Alma C. Hale of Boston was the maid of honor and wore blue silk muslin with daybreak plinks. Miss Clara F. Colton, niece of the bride, was the ring bearer, and Mr. Anton Miller of Brockton was the best man.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The base ball team defeated Brookline high in the second league game on Saturday morning by the score of 1 to 0.

The team lost its first league game with Cambridge Latin on Tuesday by the score of 6 to 3. The players nearly all gave a poor exhibition of base ball which resulted in a bad beating.
Mellen, Donahue and O'Neil showed up well for Newton.

The freshmen base ball team gave the sophomores a bad beating on Monday, 1910 played a ragged game and the errors were numerous. The score was 10 to 3.

The sophomores, however, turned the tables on Wednesday and won by the score of 10 to 6. Beatty, Allen and Kite played well for 1910 and Tucker, Cady and Belcher excelled for 1911.

An assembly was given last Friday evening in the drill hall for the juniors and seniors and was a perfect success. About one hundred people were present.

The last meeting of the German club took place last Friday afternoon in Assembly hall, and was well attended. The program was as follows:
Banjo duet by the Misses Colton, Piano solo by Miss Ford, a scene from Minna von Barnhelm by Hester Walling and Edward Laitewer, vocal solo by Miss Burr, a scene from Minna von Barnhelm by the Misses Burns and Fuller, violin solo by Miss Ivy and the meeting closed with the reading of the report of Miss Brant, the secretary.

The tennis team defeated Melrose high at West Newton Wednesday 5-0.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The Waban tennis courts ran off the first of this season's tournaments on Saturday and finished the event in spite of the weather man.

The play was in match doubles for both classes and C. C. Blaney and R.
D. Kimball won from an entry list of ten pairs, by consistent hard hitting and general excellence. The majority of the matches in the four rounds were hotly contested and many took the extra set to decide the winner.
Out side the play of the winners, the features were the work of Hill and Williamson in the early rounds and the match in which Mrs. Buffum and Mrs. Hill figured; the pair lost to Strong and Walker but took the first set by a very pretty exhibition of tennis.

but I could wish with all my heart that it was a reception to welcome the advent of Fr. Wholey into our midst rather than one to wish him Godspeed because of his departure."

Archbishop O'Connell's letter is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Flanders,
It gives me much pleasure to learn that the citizens of Newton are to honor the Reverend Father Wholey by a public meeting. I learn moreover from your letter that the citizens of various religious denominations have expressed their eagerness to attest publicly to the excellent service rendered by Father Wholey to the moral condition of the City of Newton.

All this naturally brings me a great sense of satisfaction. Since the years of my early priesthood I have known Father Wholey's traits of character, which now draw forth this singularly beautiful demonstration. It is a joy to all of us to learn that the devoted labors of a good priest have something of their reward even here. In the past misunderstandings and misconceptions on the part of those outside the fold of the Church have unhappily diminished the broader usefulness of the priest's labors. What brings to my heart the greatest joy is this harmonious accord of public sentiment centering in one of the good priests of this Diocese, is the significant indication that most of that misconception is passing, that the affectionate regard of the citizens at large for a noble and holy man whose life is devoted to the noblest calling, will not henceforth be limited to the circle of his own parish.

I send my most hearty felicitations to the people of Newton, who in honoring Father Wholey, testify to the coming of that spirit of fraternal charity which ought to be the true mark of Christ's followers, and I pray God to bless all those, who, in this spirit are united to honor one of His humble representatives among you.

Very truly yours,
W. H. O'Connell,
Abp., Boston."

The affair was in the hands of a competent committee consisting of Messrs W. M. Flanders, A. C. Burnham, C. M. Goddard and M. S. Buckley, and there was a general committee of many of the best citizens of the place.

with that association. A maximum amount of $101,000,000 in clearing-house certificates was authorized. In Pittsburgh, last October, the banks formed themselves into a similar association. In addition to certificates issued among themselves, $48,000,000 of certificates of small denominations were issued upon the united responsibility of the banks and circulated among the people as money. When the panic was over these were withdrawn and went out of existence. This is the principle which we use in this proposed legislation. We propose that not less than ten banks, having a united capital and surplus of at least $5,000,000 may associate themselves together as a clearing-house association, under rules and regulations to be promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury. The machinery of organization is most simple.

The banks of New York City or any other city in twenty-four hours could form an association as provided in this bill. If, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, the business condition of the country or of the locality is such as to require additional circulation, any bank belonging to the association may deposit securities owned by it, bonds or commercial paper, with the association. If those authorized to act for the clearing-house association are satisfied with the value of such securities, they make application to the Secretary of the Treasury for additional notes, and he may, in his discretion, issue not to exceed 75 per cent of the securities so deposited in trust with the association. All of the banks belonging to the association and all their assets are liable to the Government for this circulation issued. This follows the line of the law now upon the statute books relating to our present issue of bank notes. So far as the clearing-house association is concerned its security is ample. The security deposited by the bank with the clearing-house association must be ample. The association can require as security two or three times, if it chooses, the amount of such bank notes to be issued.

The association, under the law, has first and paramount lien upon all the assets of such bank as security for the bank notes issued. So far as the Government is concerned, its security for these notes is much greater than at present. Let us suppose that thirty banks, having capital and surplus of $15,000,000, form a clearing-house association for the purpose of getting additional circulation under this bill. They must first have 40 per cent of bond-secured circulation. The maximum amount of circulation which they obtain therefore would be $11,000,000. What security has the Government for this issue?

First, capital and surplus of thirty banks, $15,000,000; stockholders' liability for, say, $10,000,000; it has next the specific securities, probably at least twice the amount of notes issued, held in trust by the association for the United States, say, $25,000,000. It has next a first lien upon all the other assets of all the banks belonging to the association, which would be at least, $23,000,000. Security for maximum circulation; $70,000,000.

It then requires the banks to keep 5 per cent of the notes issued in cash in the hands of the Treasurer of the United States to pay these notes when they come in for redemption, and that redemption fund must be constantly kept good. Here, then, we have security, so far as the Government is concerned, of $70,000,000 worth of securities against an issue of $11,000,000 of bank notes. Surely no one can question the security of the United States in guaranteeing these notes, and no one will question the ability of the clearing-house association to absolutely protect itself against any loss through any constituent bank. Any bank may join these clearing-house associations if located in contiguous territory, but after such bank joins the association it depends entirely upon the will of the clearing-house association as to whether such bank can take out a dollar of circulation or not. That depends entirely upon the security which it has to offer and the need which it has for money. In the opinion of the managers of the association, large banks and small banks can belong to these associations with equal security, because each must put up securities from among its assets which are unquestionably good in the eyes of the association.

The experience of fifty years shows that the managers of clearing-house associations take no chances as to the securities deposited with them, and during all that time not a dollar has ever been lost through a clearing-house association.

The remedy provided under this law exists at all times and in every part of the United States. The annual loss on commercial paper is less than one-eighth of 1 per cent. The banks would bring in their best securities in time of need. If they owned securities of doubtful character, they would not bring them out for other banks to see. Under the provisions of this bill banks need not invest large sums of money in particular kinds of bonds which they must carry many years, perhaps, waiting for an emergency and which they may never need. Under the provisions of the bill passed at the other end of the Capitol only State, county, municipal, and district bonds can be used for emergency circulation.

But the statements of the banks show that not more than fifty or sixty millions of bonds of this description are owned by all the national banks of the United States. Then, to take out $500,000,000 of emergency currency, in case of need, they would have to withdraw from the channels of commerce more than $400,000,000. They must provide themselves with these bonds in advance, because it is evident if a bank waits until a panic is imminent or until it has commenced, it will not benefit itself by paying out lawful money for bonds and then exchanging the bonds for 90 per cent of their value in bank notes. Hence they must be carried indefinitely waiting for this emergency. Suppose $400,000,000 should be withdrawn from the commercial field by the national banks and invested in these bonds. Is it not evident that this great sum withdrawn would mean that crops could not be moved next fall? It would produce such a stringency in the money market as to bring about the very condition which we are legislating to prevent.

Our banking system in many respects is the best that could be devised for our country. We have nearly 10 per cent of the banking capital of the world. No one can doubt that our free banking system has been a great factor in the magnificent development of our country. In every community throughout the length and breadth of our land the substantial men in every city and town can associate themselves together in providing banking capital for their own communities. I doubt if the branch banking system would suit the independent American character. Our people would not be content to be told that some manager in a distant city must be communicated with to give permission for loans to be granted in communities where branches might be established. Our people like to see and talk direct with the man in authority. It may also be doubted whether our people are ready to adopt a great central bank on the European plan, although many of our best financial thinkers consider that we must finally come to this plan. It may be years before we change our banking and currency system. In the meantime we are in constant danger that from some perhaps unexpected cause a currency panic may start and sweep over the country, carrying disaster in its train.

We are the greatest in wealth among the nations of the earth. We are not backward in boasting about the superiority of our institutions, about our enormous expansion, and our modern business methods, and yet Europe looks on amazed at the spectacle of practically all of the banks of the greatest commercial country in the world suspending cash payments. It seems to me that if we adjourn without providing a remedy for this state of affairs it will be almost criminal neglect on the part of Congress. The remedy which we propose is simple in its machinery. Associations in the cities can be completed in twenty-four hours. The principles involved have been tried by experience. It will afford protection and confidence to our people. A monetary commission, which is provided for in this bill, can take up the whole question with a view of finding out if there are other weak spots which need strengthening.

Mr. Speaker, I am not in favor of Government guaranty of deposits. I am willing to admit that if the Government of the United States puts its credit behind the enormous deposits in our banks, the people will feel secure; but I am very doubtful that anything less than a Government guaranty of deposits will prove a remedy.

No one will contend that the thrifty depositors in banks should be singled out for protection except for some great public benefit. If these money panics can be stopped in no other way we may have to come to this remedy, but the older nations of Europe, without guaranty of any kind, have been able to stop money panics and run on banks. Why, then, shall we not be able to accomplish the same result by adopting the same remedy? That remedy is provided in this bill. It will not prevent banks which are mismanaged or which are looted by their officers from failing, but it will prevent the fright growing out of the closing of this class of banks from extending into panic and runs upon other banks.

If the people know that solvent banks can be readily and upon their own assets obtain plenty of cash with which to pay their depositors, then they will not want to draw their money. This principle is as old as banking. Many great bankers in the largest cities of the United States have endorsed this plan. Several State conventions of bankers have also unanimously recommended its principles. The benefits sought for in this proposed legislation apply to every man, woman, and child in the United States. The object of this legislation is of the first magnitude in importance to the people of the United States. Let the Republican party, the great business party of the country, place it upon our statute books.

THEATRES

Kelli's Theatre.—Seasonable in every way will be the program to be presented at Kelli's next week, turns of a comedy nature predominating. Digby Bell, than whom the American stage has never known a more versatile star, as witness his clever performance in many comic opera roles, his masterly portrayal of Nathaniel Bacon in "Shore Acres" the past season, and his success in vaudeville as a monologist at various times during the past few years, is to present his newest gathering of stories and jests, "The King of Slang," as Bert Leslie is known the country over, is to play his last vaudeville engagement in Boston prior to joining the Frohman forces. Assisted by Maude Emery, George Ryan and Dick Flower, he will play his latest skit, "Hogan in Soet," for the first time in Boston. It is said to be his merriest offering. The Belknap Brothers, unquestionably America's greatest acrobats, will head the list of "sight" acts. They are shortly to leave for Europe, where they are booked to play a long engagement. The Williams and Walker Glee Club, whose great singing is making such a hit this week, will remain for another week and will sing several new songs. Snyder and Buckley, the popular musical comedians, in their new skit, "The Street Musicians," Ryers and Herman, the sensational pantomime noveltists; Brown, Harris and Brown, in their uproariously funny bunch of nonsense, Leona Thurber and her cute and clever pickaninies; Frank Whitman, the dancing violinist; Zara and Stetson, expert baton manipulators; The Zarnes, aerialists, and new Kinetograph pictures will all be among the numbers on the program.

Boston Theatre.—Adding another to the list of strong and exclusive attractions that are now being offered at the Boston Theatre, next week will see "La Tosca," the great play by Victorien Sardou, who toured the country with remarkable success, and as Mrs. Leslie Carter, who toured the country with the play next season. It is only by special arrangement that it could be secured for this week by the stock company. It is worth while to mention that the Boston Theatre players are the only company who have been able to secure it. It is in five acts and in the cast are all the leading members of the stock company. Mr. Wilson Melrose will play the part of Le Baron Scarpia. Miss Eleanor Gordon will appear as Floria Tosca. Others in the cast are Thomas MacLarnie as Mario Cavaradossi; Theodore Friebus as Angelotti; George Parker as Schiavone; William Hasson as Eusebio; Otis Thayer as Palsiello; Walter Walker as Attavanti; William Mason as Capreola; Oliver L. Oliver as Queen Marie Caroline; Mary Sanders as Orlonia and Beverly West as Cenerlino.

GIRL ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Picking up a loaded revolver from a bureau with the intention of putting it in a safer place, Miss Jennie Powers, aged 20, a nurse maid, accidentally pulled the trigger and shot herself in the neck Friday afternoon in the house of Thomas C. Chapin, 181 Gibbs street, Newton Centre. She died immediately.

The fatality occurred in a bed room in the rear part of the second floor. Mr. Chapin was in the room at the time. A doctor was summoned at once, but he found that the young woman had lived not more than a few moments after receiving the bullet.

The Chapin family had made arrangements to move to a place in New Jersey. The work of packing up furnishings was begun and Miss Powers spent the greater part of the day assisting in the work.

With Mr. Chapin she began early in the afternoon to pack up personal effects of the family which had been kept in the rooms on the second floor.

An autopsy was performed Saturday morning by Medical Examiner George L. West in the undertaking rooms of E. W. Pratt.

Chief of Police Mitchell and Inspector O'Halloran were present, and Medical Examiner West made a report to them. "The path of the bullet indicated that it came from a revolver in her own hands," said he. Chief Mitchell said that he was satisfied the shooting was accidental. Miss Powers was a native of Charlotte town, Me. Two years ago she moved to Wollaston, where she lived with her two sisters, Misses Mary and Josephine Powers, at 165 Safford street, up to last Christmas, when she came to Newton Centre. The body was removed to Wollaston.

A CHANCE TO DO GOOD

Last summer a good friend of the Pomroy Home offered them a farm house in Lincoln for the summer, which was much enjoyed by the children.

If anyone knows a place in the country or at the seashore that could be offered to the Home for this summer, it would be much appreciated.

LASELL MILITARY DAY.

Instead of blue military uniforms of former seasons the Lasell military students donned white costumes for their annual military day exercises on the greensward Monday afternoon. Admiring parents and friends watched the marching tactics on the seminary campus at Auburndale. Two companies comprising juniors, sophomores, freshmen and special students were put through setting up exercises first and later gave an exhibition of marching. When announcement was made that Co. A. had won the competition by 69 points, against 65 scored by the girls of Co. B. there was prolonged cheering.

The judges were J. Leonard Mason of the Brookline municipal gymnasium and C. L. Schrader of Harvard university. Co. A. was in charge of Capt. Frances G. Ebersole of Cincinnati, 1st Lieut. Josephine L. Woodward of Brookline and 2d Lieut. Jennie G. Stanton of Milford. Co. B. was commanded by Capt. Edith Houghton of Red Oak, Ia., 1st Lieut. Florence M. Rogers of Greenville, Me., and 2d Lieut. Annie McDonald of Guanajuato, Mex. The companies were pretty evenly matched. In the setting up exercises Co. B. excelled, winning 10 points against 22 scored by Co. A. in the marching tactics Co. A. was easily the better, making 37 points against 25 credited Co. B. The campus and buildings were all brightly with the colors of the companies. Suspended over the lawn were yellow banners of Co. A. and red banners of Co. B. From every window and tree and even to shrubs bordering the seminary grounds there fluttered yellow and red flags and ribbons. Little Charles E. Almy, better known as "Junior," carrying a huge yellow banner, and little Miss Dorothy Crane, the latter faithful to the red, marched proudly about the grounds as mascots of the companies. They were received with applause wherever they appeared.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

From the Wellesley-Newton line an aged resident of Cedar street was thrown from his wagon and was seriously injured. Because the Newton ambulance was not available the injured man could not be removed to the Newton hospital for something more than a half hour delay. If members of the Newton ambulance corps serves us right the Newton ambulance has before now been sent a short distance outside the limits of that city in emergency cases. The accident on the lower part of Washington street was sufficiently serious to require prompt removal of the injured person to the hospital. It will be a matter of eight to ten weeks before Wellesley's combination wagon and ambulance will be completed. Then it is placed in service Wellesley will always be willing, we believe, to send the vehicle a few hundred yards into surrounding towns, if necessary, in emergency cases.—Wellesley Townsman.

THE VREELAND BILL

The following speech of Hon. Edward B. Vreeland of New York was delivered recently in Congress when the bill, killed in conference was being adopted by the House of Representatives. It covers the ground so thoroughly that we believe it will interest our readers.

Mr. Speaker, on the 1st day of last October the American people were blessed with great prosperity. Everywhere the millions of our people were engaged in gainful occupations. Our mills and factories were unable to fill their orders. The consuming power of our people had never been greater. The railroads of the country could not furnish sufficient cars to move the products of farm and factory. It is true that what we may call overprosperity had used up our available capital. It is true that liquidation in the stock exchanges had been going on for some time. Under the influence of higher rates of interest we were gradually slackening our speed. During the month of October a great bank in New York City closed its doors.

I need not go into the reasons for it. The people of New York City took fright and commenced drawing their deposits from other banks. The bankers clear across the continent to the Pacific became alarmed lest their reserves could not be had when called for, and all tried to draw their money from New York in cash at one time. The result was that the New York banks were obliged to refuse payment, and a general suspension of cash payment took place throughout the United States. The deposits in the banks of this country are over $13,000,000,000. We have in the United States of all kinds of money something over $3,000,000,000, more than half of it in the pockets of the people. It is evident, then, that when the country endeavored to change its business, 90 per cent of which is ordinarily done on a credit basis, to a cash basis, the result was a general stoppage and paralysis of the business of the country. Why did all of the bankers clear to the Pacific coast, almost as one body, endeavor to draw their reserves from New York? Because they knew the supply of money was limited. Because they knew that if they were unable to draw their reserves from New York they were thrown back upon the cash in their vaults, and that nowhere on earth, at least within reasonable time, could more cash be obtained.

The panic of last October was a great calamity which cost the people more than ten times in money the total cost of the Spanish war. It was a calamity which cost us ten thousand times as much in suffering of the American people as did the Spanish War. It was a panic which could not be foreseen. No Member on the other side of the Chamber has stood up in this House so far during this session and pointed out where the Republican party, through any laws which it has passed, was responsible for the panic that burst suddenly upon us last October. We know where the panic of 1892 came from. We know that the currency panic of that year followed an industrial panic, caused by fear of the country that revision of the tariff would take place along tariff-revenue lines. But no Democrat has yet attempted to point out that the Republican party, by reason of laws which it has passed or by reason of anything which it could have foreseen, was responsible for the sudden panic that burst upon the country in October last. That panic threw hundreds of thousands of men out of employment. That panic cost this country hundreds of millions of dollars. That panic meant that through the long winter days which we have passed men were out of work and little children suffered for food and clothing.

What shall we do about it? This is the Congress to which the eyes of the people must turn for relief. What relief can we give against these disastrous currency panics which periodically sweep over the country, which undermine the confidence of the people in our banks, and which undermine the confidence of the bankers in each other? Mr. Speaker, I believe that if this currency bill which is now before this House had been upon the statute books last October, if the banks of the great city of New York on the day after the Knickerbocker Bank closed its doors could have instantly had $150,000,000 in cash, as they could have had under this bill that panic would never have spread outside the city of New York.

What legislation can we enact? There are some who are insisting that we shall change our whole currency system at this session of Congress. Mr. Speaker, it is a serious thing to change a currency system which has been in force in this country for nearly half a century. It is a serious thing to change a currency system from one where the Government of the United States is behind every dollar that circulates among the people over to some other system where the Government does not guarantee every dollar to the people. There are those who are urging us to adopt an asset or credit system of currency. What is asset currency? What is that system? It is one in which the banks issue their notes which circulate as money; it is a system in which the assets of each bank alone are a guarantee that the money is good.

It is a system in which the Government does not guarantee to the people that these notes will be paid. This would be a tremendous change, Mr. Speaker. It would mean that we must tear out of our statute books the financial act of 1900, an act placed there by the Republican party as the result of the great battle of the standards in 1896. That law, passed in 1900 by a Republican Congress, guarantees that every dollar which circulates in the United States shall be kept equal to a gold dollar, and directs the Secretary of the Treasury to use all of the resources of the United States to keep every dollar which circulates by its authority at a parity with a gold dollar. Are the people prepared for such a tremendous change? Would it be acceptable to the people? In my judgment, it would be impossible for this Congress to take such a step without knowing in advance that the people of the United States would endorse and approve it.

What, then, shall we do at this time? Mr. Speaker, we can pass this bill before the House. It is not a system of currency.

It is an addition to the existing system of currency which we have had for fifty years with which the people are familiar, so that in time of panic we can provide a great reservoir of money which can be instantly drawn upon. The political economists tell us and all history teaches us that expansion, immediate and profuse, is the only cure for a panic, but we do not want permanent inflation. Permanent inflation in our currency would only lead in the end to more panics. We provide, then, in this bill that with the consent of the Secretary of the Treasury, in time of great financial distress, a maximum of $500,000,000 already printed and available may be issued to national banks which comply with the conditions named in this bill, upon security which amounts to six or seven times every dollar issued. We then provide that under the influence of a high tax the moment the need for this money ceases it shall be driven out of existence.

I find that for ten years past the increase of money in the United States, year by year, has fully kept up with all of our enormous expansion and increased demands of business. We find, further, that that increase is largely in gold. We find that the percentage of our total money in gold is much larger than it was ten years ago. We find that no other great country with any other system has kept pace with us either in quantity or quality in the increased supply of money necessary for business purposes. I stand here to say that our annual increase has been ample to supply the business needs of the country. What, then, is the trouble? Why is it that periodically we have these currency famines, resulting in panic and distress throughout the country? Mr. Speaker, it is because we have not followed the example of the great commercial nations abroad and provided a secondary reserve upon which we shall draw only in time of great need.

I might illustrate it by taking the case of a town which has an abundant supply of pure water for its ordinary and normal needs, but if a great fire breaks out and a conflagration is threatened it has no reservoir upon which it can draw to prevent or extinguish such conflagration. What we are proposing in this bill is to supply a reservoir to be drawn upon only in case of fire. It needs no financial expert to understand this plan. It is one which will appeal to the common sense of the American people. We have all the money that we need for the ordinary normal demands of business, year after year, but when some great bank in New York closes its doors, when there is some international complication, when there is some fear that the Democratic party may be restored to power, when fear falls upon the heart of the people, we find that our 26,000 separate and integral units composing our banking system fall apart. Each one desires to protect itself and they draw upon New York for their money; they draw all together for their money, and the result is that our system falls, our banks are obliged to suspend payment, hundreds of thousands of men are thrown out of employment, and suffering and loss is spread among the people.

Mr. Speaker, I stand here to say that there is no other great commercial country on this earth which has not, under some form, a remedy such as is provided in this bill. Let us take the case of Great Britain, second only to the United States as a great commercial country. Great Britain has the most rigid and best-kept currency system of any of the great nations. The Bank of England substantially issues all of the currency for England. About $80,000,000 of their bank notes are issued on Government consols. Beyond that, for every Bank of England note issued an equal amount of gold must be deposited in the bank. The banks of Great Britain are not required by law to keep reserves within their vaults. As a rule, the great stock-company banks of Great Britain keep their reserves in the Bank of England. What do they do in case of panic? Where do they get their increased supply of money with which to rapidly inflate the currency when fear and panic fall upon the people? The bank applies to the Government and the Government suspends the bank act.

What does that mean? It means that the Bank of England may then put forth unlimited quantities of bank notes without an equal amount of gold being deposited against it. It means that any bank in Great Britain can take its securities to the Bank of England, rediscount them, and receive Bank of England notes of exchange. It means that there can be no currency famine. Three times in its history, to stop panic, the bank act has been suspended. The result has always been the same, and it has now come to pass that the mere announcement that the bank act has been suspended is sufficient to instantly restore confidence and stop panic. When the panic is over the Bank of England gradually withdraws its notes from circulation and goes back upon its normal basis of having an equal amount of gold for all notes outstanding.

We are all familiar with the German system. In Germany the Imperial Bank, under Government control, issues a great part of the currency of the country. The Imperial Bank must keep 33 1/3 per cent of gold as a reserve against all notes issued. The Government arbitrarily limits the amounts of such notes in circulation to $117,000,000, but in time of financial stress the Imperial Bank can exceed this legal limit of notes issued to any extent with the permission of the Government by paying a tax of 5 per cent upon such excess issues.

Here, then, adapted to the German system is the same provision which we are seeking to enact into law under this bill, where unlimited amounts of money may come out with the permission of the Government to avert or relieve financial panic, but with such a tax upon it that it is driven out of existence as fast as the financial pressure is withdrawn. Austria has the same provision. France has similar provisions adapted to her system. These great countries have no guarantee of deposits. The people who deposit in their banks are not dissatisfied from the people who deposit in our banks. Yet these countries have long since ceased to have currency famines and runs upon their banks. Why, if you read the history of the Bank of England you will find that fifty or sixty years ago the banks issued clearing-house certificates in the city of London to tide over panic. You might think you are reading about the condition which existed in the cities of the United States only last fall.

Out of their longer experience they have done away with currency famines. How have they done it? Not by having more money than we have; not by having better money than we have, but by having a reserve of money which can be drawn upon in time of panic, a reservoir in case of fire, such as is provided in the bill now before the House.

Last October the Bank of England had in its vaults $165,000,000 of gold. The Treasury building in this city contains nearly a billion and a quarter millions of dollars in gold. That sum of gold in the Bank of England represented not only the bank notes in circulation but it represented the reserves of many of the great banks of London. We were drawing it away from them at the rate of six or seven millions of dollars a week. Why was it that the people of England did not become alarmed? Why did not the banks rush in and draw down their reserves and take it to their own vaults? That is what would have happened in this country. The reason they did not do that is because they knew that at any time in case of stress their money was not limited to that sum in the vaults of the great bank, but that the bank act could be suspended and unlimited amounts of money, in which the people had confidence, would come forth.

Would not the same causes apply here? If the people of this country knew that already printed and stored in the Treasury and subtreasuries of the country were $500,000,000 which would be instantly available in case of great need, would it not be a bulwark of confidence against panic? The greatest value of this law, in my judgment, would be that it is on the statute books. Its greatest value would be the steadiness and confidence which it would give to the people. If the people of New York City had known last October that great amounts of money were printed and lying in the subtreasury, instantly available, they would not have started a run upon the banks. Knowing they could get their money if they wanted it, they would not want it. If the people of the Pacific States had known that lying in the subtreasury at New Orleans was twenty-four or five millions of dollars, which they could get in case of great need, they would not have attempted to draw their reserves from New York. They would not have had a holiday proclaimed by the governor lasting for months in order to protect the banks.

If the people of the South had known that lying in the subtreasury at New Orleans was something like eighty-five or ninety millions of dollars, which with the consent of the Government, in time of stress could be secured, through their own banks, through their own associations, upon their own assets, they would not have been so alarmed when panic broke out in New York City. They would have known that that as a last resort they could take that money, send their cotton and sugar to market, and go on about their business.

Now, what is the plan under which we propose to issue this money? The money must be absolutely good in the eyes of the people. During all the panics of forty years the notes issued by the banks guaranteed by the United States and the notes issued direct by the Government have been hoarded the same as if they were shining gold pieces. During the panic of last October our paper money sold at a higher premium in the streets of New York than did gold.

This money, then, will be issued by the Government through the banks, the same as our present bank notes. It will be identical in form with our bank notes. It will be guaranteed by the Government and will be as good as bank notes. As I shall show, the Government will have much greater security for its guaranty than it has upon bank notes issued under the present law.

In this proposed law we are using the clearing-house principle. During every currency panic for half a century the banks of large cities have associated themselves together in clearing-houses. The effect of this has been to unite their assets and resources together as if they were one bank. Instead of standing alone to meet the shock of panic, so that first the weaker banks would give way and with the growing fear and excitement the stronger ones would next be attacked and might also give way, they banded themselves together, so that there was no weakest and no strongest, but one great bank, transferring its resources from one point to another as might be needed. Clearing-house certificates would be issued to banks needing help, to secure which such bank would deliver over to the clearing-house association securities from among its assets which would be satisfactory in quality and quantity to the clearing-house association officers.

It is a fact that during the fifty years that these clearing houses have been used in time of panic never a dollar has been lost to this day. During the panic of last fall $452,000,000 of securities, 72 per cent of which was commercial paper, were deposited by banks of the New York clearing house.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

WALTHAM

MEMORIAL DAY

Notwithstanding the lowering skies of last Saturday and the smart showers which fell during the afternoon, Charles Ward Post 62 Grand Army of the Republic, manfully carried out to the letter, the usual impressive exercises of Memorial Day.

In the morning the graves at Newton cemetery were decorated by the comrades and Camp 31 Sons of Veterans, under command of Junior Vice Commander Hosea Hyde. At the same time comrades from the south side of the city under command of Senior Vice Commander James E. Reid decorated the graves at Evergreen cemetery, and then proceeded to Newton Lower Falls where services were held in St. Mary's cemetery.

At the conclusion of the exercises at the cemetery, the beautiful custom of casting flowers on the waters of Charles river in memory of the sailor dead ended the services of the morning.

The post then reported at the Engine house Newton Centre, where luncheon was served by the Newton Centre Improvement Association.

The lunch was served under direction of a committee consisting of Messrs. A. E. Alvord, W. H. Rice and H. A. Ely, assisted by many ladies of the Newton Centre Woman's club.

The afternoon parade formed at 1.30 at the corner of Willow and Centre streets and marched in review before Mayor Hutchinson and the city Government at the corner of Centre and Beacon streets. The parade was formed of a platoon of police in charge of Lieut. Soule, chief marshal, Major Morton E. Cobb, Lieut. G. H. Benyon, chief of staff, Major Walter L. Sanborn, adjutant general and a corps of military and civil aids, the Clifton Guard, Captain Geo. F. Gullford, Swift's Waltham band, Charles Ward Post, R. E. Ashenden, commander, Thomas Burnett camp, Spanish War Veterans, R. W. Daley, commander, J. Wiley Edmonds camp, Sons of Veterans, Grenville B. Macomber, Jr., commander, Mrs. Cunningham tent, Daughters of Veterans, Miss Matilda Czarnay, president and veterans in carriages.

The route included Beacon street, Lake avenue, where a stop was made for lemonade at the residence of the chief marshal, Berwick road and Walnut street to the Cemetery.

The exercises at the cemetery are always impressive and were carried out in detail, notwithstanding the dubious weather. After a selection by the band, Adjutant George Hill read the orders for the day. This was followed by reports from the various details in charge of decoration of the graves. Past Commander Henry Haynie then deposited a bouquet of flowers at the base of the Soldiers' monument. In the name of the Post, and he was followed by members of the Post, the city government, and the daughters of Veterans. Asst. Adj. General Wilfred A. Wetherbee then read the beautiful Gettysburg address of President Lincoln and this was followed by the salute to the dead, the bugle call at the monument being repeated at different points in the cemetery. The exercises closed with the singing of America, and the parade reformed and proceeded to Newtonville thru Walnut street.

At the head of Washington park, the column was reviewed by the chief marshal and staff. The banquet was served in Temple hall, about 300 sitting down to a bountiful repast at half past four, Commander Ashenden presiding. The formal speaking was preceded by the singing of the Doxology, and of America by the audience, and reading of a letter from Congressman John W. Weeks.

Rev. John Matteson of Auburndale responded to the toast, "Our President and Comrade," saying in part that while many feared that President Roosevelt was usurping the functions of the legislative and even the judicial departments, it should be remembered that it was his duty, to recommend, to execute and to veto. His greatness shines in the fact that he does not shrink from telling the country, what the people want. Mr. Matteson believed the President to be a man who sees things, and a man who does things—an interpreter of the best thought and will of the American people. He has shown himself a man of peace, because he knows the hell of war. He believes in peace between classes—one law for the rich and the poor, the high and the low. A Christian man, a reverent man, one who attends church every Sunday. One of America's greatest sons, one of the world's greatest men.

Mayor Hutchinson responded to the toast, "The City of Newton" saying, "It is my privilege to bring to you the official greetings of the City of Newton, and it is my personal pleasure to accept of your hospitality."

This holiday, as no other, is one in which the City in its corporate body is particularly interested. Your celebration, aside from its national significance, has a positive local interest, and impresses itself upon our people of all ages and all conditions. But proud as you are and we are of our Republic it may still be likened to a growing child of strong physique, of noble mind, but of unfinished education. Its grandeur is in its history but not more so than in its ambitions, its possibilities, its confidence and hope.

In its development as a nation it has yet much to gain in commercial conservatism and integrity. It has yet to rise above political littleness and selfish propensities, it has yet to attain to a greater degree of governmental fearlessness and dignity. This is a condition, not of discouragement, not of surprise. The child is every day developing into a more thoughtful, sane and generous being.

Here is our responsibility. It is all a question of the growth of the individual, of ourselves largely, and of our children, particularly. Every man carries for the respect and good opinion of the young, and as we care for the material and ethical growth of our country we must strive constantly and most earnestly for the ideals of the home, the occupation and the national life.

Mayor Hutchinson was given three cheers as he closed his address. Commander Ashenden referred to the deep interest the late Hon. Henry E. Cobb had in the Post and then introduced the chief marshal, Major Morton E. Cobb, who said—

I have always felt and I am sure you do that it is a great privilege which we all are glad to exercise, to take any part in the ceremonies of a Memorial Day.

I appreciate that the Chas. Ward Post 62 has conferred a great honor upon me by appointing me Chief Marshal of this parade and feel under obligations to them for permitting me to serve in this capacity today.

Although I have always had in my makeup a goodly amount of patriotism and keen appreciation of the significance of this day, I never before passed a Memorial Day when my thoughts and feelings were so thoroughly in accord with every part of these solemn observances.

As I ask you to pause with me in this pleasant social gathering, and for a moment or two permit our thoughts to dwell upon the honored ones who have gone out from the enrollment of this Post and this community and now have their names on the Duty Roster in the land beyond, you must pardon me if I make these remarks from a personal standpoint.

One of your past members was an armor bearer whose place I am striving as best I can to fill, not only on the rolls of associate membership of Post 62, but in the carrying on of the general life work of this community. His personality was the masterful, manly, example to which my earliest childish thoughts turned for instruction, inspiration, comfort and protection.

As only very recently an all wise Providence has deemed it necessary for the good of us all to deprive you and me of this honored Comrade and guiding influence, my whole soul joins in the utmost reverence, with you all in the perpetuating in our thoughts and in the thoughts of others the glorious standards of manliness, usefulness patriotism and Godliness left us by the lives all too soon brought to a close of those who we remember today. My feelings are two fold—in intense sadness and intense pride.

Sad that your comrades and mine have gone on ahead and left us to trudge on alone.

Proud that we were a part of and associated with them in their great work of making the world better.

And with our righteous pride we turn cheerfully towards the carrying out of God's work which they have dropped and are stimulated to a better performance by their lives and sacrifices.

Asst. Adj. General Wetherbee then responded for the Grand Army, saying in part that Memorial Day owes its existence to that organization. Our cemeteries are places of greater beauty, and the people observe the day in growing numbers. We want Old Glory to fly over every school house and public building in the land. Let the children learn patriotism by entering the school beneath the folds of the flag. Mr. Wetherbee declared the veterans to be good soldiers in time of war and good citizens now and closed with an exhortation to his comrades to be true to our principles and true to the flag.

Commander G. B. Macomber, Jr. responded for the Sons of Veterans saying in part that his organization had founded a great memorial to the Grand Army in the Memorial University where the needy sons and daughters of veterans were educated. He declared that Memorial day has been neglected, and asked that sports be prohibited on the morning, and that the day be devoted to respect to the dead and to the veterans of the Grand Army.

A gruffing feature of the banquet was the brevity of the post prandial exercises, which in other years have been extended to a tiresome length. Six o'clock saw the close of the banquet on Saturday, with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

A man isn't necessarily smart just because he says some things that do.

Ever see the motto, "Live and let live," on the walls of a boarding house?

GENERAL FEDERATION MEETING

The ninth biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will open June 22 at 8 P. M. with a concert by the Symphony Orchestra in Symphony hall, Boston.

The sessions of the Convention will continue through June. Members of the Newton Centre Woman's Club desiring to attend any of the sessions, morning, afternoon or evening, may obtain tickets for season designated on ticket by applying in person to Mrs. Frank E. Anderson, 181 Gibbs street, Newton Centre, on Saturday, June 13, from 4-6 P. M., Wednesday, June 17, from 8-9 A. M., and 4-6 P. M.

RESUME OF REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES OF STATE FEDERATION

Education

The questions sent out by the Education Committee were answered by 123 clubs. Favorable answers to all five questions came from the Milton Woman's Club, the Fitchburg Women's Club and the Alden Club of Franklin. Eight clubs had favorable answers for four of the questions, eighteen for three, thirty-one for two and forty for one. Twenty-three clubs answered all in the negative.

The answers to the first of the questions told of the formation of classes of club-members to study history, literature, current events, the Bible, Esperanto, cooking, physical culture and dancing—also that that many of their regular afternoons have been devoted to such subjects as Remembrance for Teachers, Co-operation of Home and School and Children's Rights.

The answers to question No. 2, described educational meetings which have been open to the public and others to which school committees (teachers and high school pupils have received special invitation.

Miss Jane Brownlee has been present at many of these meetings and it seems as if her visit to New England were likely to leave lasting results.

Question No. 3 related to the maintenance of special schools and the answers stated that the club-women are taking unabated interest in vacation schools and playgrounds, day nurseries, kindergartens and evening schools and that they are beginning to be interested in trade schools.

The fourth question related to the maintenance of scholarships. It appears that clubs are maintaining scholarships in both Southern and Northern colleges and that many of them have college funds to use in aiding graduates of local high schools to enter upon more advanced study.

The miscellaneous ways of carrying on educational work which the answers to the fifth question described were many of them most unique and interesting.

The Education Committee hopes shortly to be able to announce details in regard to scholarships for women in English universities similar to the Rhode scholarships for men.

The two subjects recommended for Massachusetts clubs for the coming year are Industrial Training and Moral Training. The Committee believes that the club women can do much to further the establishment of Trade Schools and the introduction of moral training into the public schools.

Mary L. Sheldon, Chairman.

Civil Service Reform

The Civil Service Reform committee, Miss George A. Bacon, chairman, reported that one hundred and eight clubs have civil service reform committees, that several have made the work a part of civics, social service and current events. A larger number of clubs than ever before offered prizes of the bronze medal of the Women's Auxiliary to the pupil in the senior class of the local high school who should write the most meritorious essay. Regarding the work as a whole, that of the Framingham Woman's Club, Miss Bacon thought, should be an example and an incentive to all.

Its efficient committee secured special recitations in all grades of the grammar schools, the high school, the normal, and the Framingham Business College; it arranged a meeting at the high school and conducted a prize essay competition; it gave a plaster cast of the bronze medal to the new High School Building; it induced the trustees of the public library to place "Good Government" in their reading-room; it signed petitions, wrote congressmen and members of the Legislature, and contributed frequent items to the local press. Such work continued from year to year must make a lasting impression upon the youth of any city or town, and must tend towards the awakened conscience of all citizens.

Pure Food

The pure food committee reported, through its chairman, Mrs. White, a general interest manifested by all the clubs in the important subject of pure food. Twenty-two clubs have pure food committees and seventeen clubs have informed themselves definitely as to the conditions in their own community that need attention and improvement.

Reciprocity Bureau

Since the chairman of the Reciprocity Bureau has recently been asked by the president of a club to tell her something of the bureau's meaning, it may be that others are in search of similar information, and a few lines from Mrs. Pennock's report as chairman of the bureau will be appreciated. When the bureau was first established its work was confined to the exchange of musical or literary programmes which had proved especially attractive in the home clubs. This led to the establishment of the reciprocity library, comprised of papers and courses of study, loaned by the writers which at present may be used by any club within the State upon application to the committee. Excellent papers, on a variety of subjects make up this library and it has been increased this year by five articles on German history, geography, customs, education and language. An illustrated lecture on "Village Improvement" forms a prominent feature of the library. Reciprocity, with this committee, means the exchange of views relative to the best methods of furthering the work undertaken by the clubs in cooperation with the State Federation.

Civics

Mrs. Anna T. Bush, chairman of the committee, stated that of the clubs responding to the questions sent out by her committee, 125 reported having done successful work along the line of civics. Forty-three clubs have civics committees, 31 have attempted some sort of anti-tuberculosis work, 19 are interested in a district nurse either wholly or in part supporting one. Twenty-nine have interested themselves in local history, 9 have considered the juvenile court, 33 are engaged in stamps savings. Among subjects recommended by the committee for the consideration of the clubs may be mentioned, medical inspection, how it is carried out, the need of probation officers. We must be wise, watchful and patient.

Literature

Miss Helen M. Winslow, chairman of the newly appointed Literature committee, stated that her committee hoped to be of value to the Federation and to the clubs, but her report would be more in the way of promise than of achievement.

Arts and Crafts

Mrs. Mary W. Overholser, chairman of the Arts and Crafts committee, in her report referred to the Arts and Crafts movement as a social and industrial problem. One member of the committee has been tabulating the civic art of Boston. The Quincy Woman's Club has an Arts and Crafts department. The package of answers to the question sent out by her committee had been lost in transportation, so that she was unable to give in detail what the various clubs are doing in this line of work.

Library Extension and Settlement Work

Mrs. Sara T. S. Leighton, chairman of this department, devoted the time allotted her to a description of the settlement work in connection with the Model School in Georgia, which after this year passes out of the hands of the Massachusetts Federation and will hereafter be continued by the Georgia women. Much good work has been done. It has not been kindness thrown away, and Mrs. Leighton expressed the hope that some permanent results may have been obtained. She told particularly of the teacher's cottage and the enthusiasm of the workers.

Household Economics

In the report of this department, Mrs. Bates, chairman, stated that household economics is an application of the arts and sciences to the household, that it is a return to a simpler form of living and an economy of energy. In order to bring this about the club class offers the first step. She urged the women to have classes formed in their clubs.

Legislative

Miss Caroline J. Cook, chairman of the Legislative committee, reported that 51 clubs have shown themselves actively interested in legislative affairs, there has been a gain the attendance of club women at hearings and emphasized the importance of this attendance. One need which the committee had felt and which had been mentioned by one club was that of a speaker along this line of work who should go to the clubs and arouse their interest and enthusiasm.

Forestry

The Forestry committee through Mrs. Ida Farr Miller, its chairman, reported themselves as being discouraged with the result of this year's work through the failure of being able to secure any action by Congress, but still they are not without hope. Interest in the subject is slowly growing, but there is need of greater understanding of the matter. She urged the clubs to encourage the planting of trees.

NEWTON MAN HONORED

Mr. Christopher M. Goddard of Newton Centre, secretary of the New England Insurance Exchange, was elected president of the National Fire Protection Association at its recent meeting in Chicago.

C. M. Goddard, president-elect of the National Fire Protection Association, and for the past seventeen years secretary of the New England Insurance Exchange, was born at Clarendon, N. H., in 1826. He received his early education in the public schools of that town and the Episcopal Academy of Cheshire, Conn., and was graduated from the Chandler Scientific School of Dartmouth College, second in his class, in 1877. For three years after leaving college, Mr. Goddard was instructor in higher mathematics and natural sciences at the Episcopal Academy, after which he spent four years as clerk in a banking house in New York. In 1890 he became electrical inspector of the New England Insurance Exchange, and one year later was made secretary of the organization. Mr. Goddard was the originator of the movement which resulted in the organization of the Underwriters' National Electrical Association, and is its secretary. He has also been prominently identified with the N. F. P. A., National Conference of Electrical Rules, and the Underwriters' Laboratories Corporation of Chicago, and is a consulting engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The election of Mr. Goddard as president of the National Fire Protection Association is but fitting recognition of his acknowledged high ability.

The Standard, the weekly insurance paper of Boston, has the following complimentary mention of Mr. Goddard's election in its last issue.

"That the high compliment paid C. M. Goddard of Boston last week in Chicago, by his election to the presidency of the National Fire Protection Association was fully merited, is well known to all who have had dealings with the New England Insurance Exchange during the past twenty years. In addition to being a tireless worker and a close student of his business, Mr. Goddard is an able executive and his intimate knowledge of electrical matters alone would entitle him to a place in the front rank of insurance engineers.

The signal honor paid to Mr. Goddard and to New England in placing him at the head of an organization like the N. F. P. A. is keenly appreciated by the fraternity in this section, which has known the man and his work well and favorably for many years."

PRESS OUTING

Members of the Massachusetts Press Association were the guests last Monday afternoon at Wonderland, with the courtesy of a special car from the Boston Elevated and the Boston and Northern Street Railway Companies. About 75 were present and notwithstanding the heat passed a very enjoyable afternoon. After reaching Wonderland the party were taken in charge by Mr. Hugh J. McNally, and visited the Darktown performance, experienced a ride on the Scenic Railway, and enjoyed the spectacle of Pawnee Bill's Wild West Show. The open air attractions, which are free to all included some fine balancing acts and the sensational triple somersault of Mlle. Novl in an automobile. The editors were unanimous in the opinion that they would rather use the shenies and pastepot for many years, than attempt to rival the lady in the automobile.

BOY DROWNED

Venturing beyond his depth while bathing in the Charles river near Charlesbank road Alexander McDonald, the 10-year old son of Angus McDonald of 95 Pearl street, was drowned Monday afternoon.

Believing, it is thought, that the water was still shallow where the dredger had been at work the boys started out toward the middle of the stream. The McDonald boy suddenly walked into a hole, and although his companions saw him disappear and summoned help immediately the lad drowned before aid reached him.

MERRYMAKERS MASQUE

An outdoor "merrymakers" masque in aid of "Richland," the fresh air home conducted by the Newtonville Methodist parish each summer, was held Saturday on the grounds surrounding the church, Walnut street and Newtonville avenue, Newtonville.

The affair began with a breakfast served from 6:30 to 9 to many patrons. Various side shows, a flag drill and cradle song of all nations and a minstrel show by the young people furnished entertainment for many patrons throughout the day.

Automobile trips were run through the surrounding villages. "Richland," the home supported summers by this church, has in the last five years sent into the country for vacations over 1900 poor children living in Boston.

The home has been located in Middleboro, Hingham, Hopkinton, Lincoln and Haverhill. This year it will be located in Haverhill. It is named in honor of W. T. Rich of this city.

The executive committee in charge of arrangements comprised Calvert Crary, William T. Rich, Edgar E. Davidson, George M. Bridges, Miss Evelyn M. Hammond, Miss Alice M. Nelson, Mrs. Emma O. Ginn, Cecil Thompson, Miss Sophronia B. Rich and George M. Bridges.

Calvert Crary supervised the automobile excursions, and the other attractions were in charge of the following:

Tea room—Mrs. J. C. Atkinson.

While the friends of Congressman Weeks rejoice at the influential position he has attained in Washington, and his present opportunity to be of invaluable service to the business life of the entire country, as a member of the National Monetary Commission, it seems inconceivable that less than ten years ago, it was with the greatest reluctance he consented to enter public life as an alderman in this city.
From the results obtained, it is evident, that the city and the nation owe a debt of gratitude to those gentlemen in West Newton who first persuaded Captain Weeks to accept that municipal office.

We print this week the excellent speech of Senator Faxon on the proposed railroad regulation bill now under consideration in the Legislature.
We believe that the Senator has a sound position and logical argument for the passage of the bill, altho we personally believe that the business interests of the state would not suffer if a carefully drawn merger bill was enacted immediately.

HUNNEWELL CLUB RECEPTION

Congressman John W. Weeks of this city was the guest last Monday evening of the Hunnewell club, and had a most enthusiastic reception from over 300 representative men of Newton. The clubhouse was illuminated with Japanese lanterns and presented a gala appearance.

Handley's orchestra enlivened the time while the members and friends were gathering.

Seated on the platform with the Congressman were Dr. M. E. Gleason, president of the club, Judge William F. Dana, Hon. A. R. Reed, Representative W. F. Garcelon, Mayor George Hutchinson, Alderman Frank A. Day, and Messrs. F. E. Stanley and J. W.
French. Dr. Gleason introduced Judge Dana as the chairman of the evening and he paid Capt. Weeks a high compliment in his introduction. Congressman Weeks made a splendid speech, principally in relation to the Currency question. He gave a simple and lucid explanation of the difference between the Aldrich and Ve-land bills, and the probable workings of the conference bill as finally passed by the Congress. After the speaking, an informal reception was held in the club parlors.

ALUMNI DAY

Alumni day was observed Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Newton theological institution, Newton Centre, when a large number of Baptist clergymen who had prepared for the ministry in the institution attended the exercises.

The annual dinner of the alumni association took place in Sturtevant hall. A business meeting was held late in the afternoon in Colby hall, when officers were chosen as follows:
Rev. Woodman Bradbury '91, pres.
Rev. Fred M. Preble '84, vice pres.
Rev. Winfred N. Donovan '98, clerk.
Rev. Edmund F. Merriam '79, treas.
Rev. Woodman Bradbury '91, Sec.
Rev. Fred M. Preble '84, Sec. 2.
Rev. Winfred N. Donovan '98, Sec. 3.
Rev. Edmund F. Merriam '79, Sec. 4.
Rev. Richard O. Sherwood '86, directors. Rev. Henry M. Thompson '81, orator. Rev. Shalier Matthews '87, alternate. Rev. Millard F. Johnson '79, ne-crolgist. Rev. William H. Spencer '69, Rev. John R. Gow '81, Rev. Frederic
S. Boody '39, nominating committee.
Rev. Richard O. Sherwood '86, Rev.
William B. Whitney '90 and Rev. Augustus F. Scoville '87, entertainment committee.

In the evening the annual oration before the alumni was delivered by Rev. Dr. Edwin C. Whittemore '82, pastor of the First Baptist church at Waterville, Me., whose subject was "A Path for New Occasions."

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

A bare majority of the board were present on Monday evening and only routine business was transacted.

At the hearing on widening of Laundry Brook, W. J. Adams said: From my lot of land according to the engineer it will take fifty-five feet front and it is thirty-five feet deep, so it will take practically all my front land and leave me all back land with no entrance.

This takes off what I use for a driveway bringing in coal and so forth, and for a roadway, and now you are going to damage the whole business and leave me all back land. The brook does not interfere with us at all. I have filled the land in five feet to keep the water out. Of course after a rain storm there is more water put in. We are accommodating the City to pass their dirty water down it and now you want the abutters to give the land to conduct your water down to the Charles River. You want to take our land and build two walls on the brook, not to cover it, and damage our land for nothing. The land would be no good to me. You can take it all if you take fifty-five feet of the front. You can see yourself if you take fifty-five feet off of one hundred feet front, it is not large enough to have for frontage, forty-five feet. The brook is all right for me, it does not bother me at all.

R. C. Bridgman said: I am interested in five or six pieces of property that border on this brook and I do not say that I appear as opposed to it unless I know what you are going to do if it is an improvement, of course I am naturally ready to assist in any improvement coming to the land owners in that vicinity, but I fail so far to find what benefit there is to the property that I have charge of. The proposed line comes within a foot of one house, takes off the back steps of another, cuts into a barn on another place, goes very near another house and then takes a triangular piece off another, and I cannot see where the benefit would come. The brook is wide enough to suit me, and it always struck me that the trouble was with the bridge below. The direct question that I would like to ask is whether it is to be any benefit in that locality in making this brook wider than it is at the present time. Of course if it benefits way up the stream somewhere it does not seem as though we ought to suffer for them.

City Engineer Farnham: In treating this brook we are seeking to accomplish two things, first, the widening of the channel and second the lowering of the brook. Much of the land in that vicinity is low and in lowering the brook it is equivalent to filling the land in and it is not proposed to disturb the buildings in any way and the intention is to reserve all rights of the owners in the existing buildings.

Mr. Bridgman: I should certainly protest against the property being left with sloping banks, it will appear perfectly plain to any body that the liability of a child falling down an incline is much greater than a straight wall.
Mr. Adams: I am speaking for Mrs.
Thompson, who owns three lots on Clarendon avenue. The brook comes in and destroys one piece of her property and takes a double house clean away from her. That lady is depending on that property for her living.
Mr. Patrick Quinn, 104 Harvard street: I have no objection at all to give the use of the land if they cover the brook. I have a house each side of the brook and there is only nineteen and a half feet between the houses and I have to have a walk around the house and if you take my land to widen the brook there will be nothing left around the house.

P. S. Cuniff, Esq., for William Murphy and Margaret Murphy: These people own a triangular lot of which 107 feet borders on the brook. Mr.
Murphy says that he has had no trouble because of the over flow of the brook. He says that in the winter time the water has risen to a height of four feet, in the summer time it is about eighteen inches. It is a peculiar shaped lot, one corner of the house comes within eighteen inches of the brook. If you take any more land you destroy the value of that lot for any purpose. He is perfectly willing if the City sees it to cover the brook if he can have the use of the top land for planting.

The hearing was subsequently reopened and Mr. Henry F. Ross said: I understand that it is your desire to widen the brook something like fourteen feet. I have bordered on that brook something like fourteen years and I think the brook is ample to take care of the water. If this brook is to be widened it is my idea that the City of Newton should stand the entire expense and covering from where it is on the Pulsifer property down as far as you may go. If you leave that an open brook, grass and slime growing on the edges soon become foul and if you close it in it would bring into the market from forty to sixty thousand dollars' worth of property. On the other hand you are going to better that property fifty per cent. I hope this Board will look into this before you widen this brook. I for one would have no objection to your covering it, but if it is done the other way I certainly should object and I think it would be a source of litigation to the City.

Mr. Thomas A. Brady: I have about an acre of land beside it. I think it is a good idea to widen that brook and also to cover it. I think the City should stand the expense. I think the abutters should not stand the expense.
I would like to see it done.
A letter from Francis J. Hartshorne opposing the widening was read by the City Clerk.

At the hearing on laying out, grading and accepting Chaske avenue, Kaposia street, Winona street under the betterment law.

Mr. W. C. Wetherbee said: I have taken somewhat an active part in securing the names which appear on the petitions. We who signed these petitions fully understand that the laying out of these streets involves some expense to the owners, but we feel that this expense will be reasonable in view of the betterment which will result. We feel that this work never could be accomplished at a less expense than at the present time. Personally I feel that this district is at a serious disadvantage on account of the conditions of these streets and inas much as it is impossible as individuals I feel that the City should do everything possible consistent with the interests of the City as a whole, to help us in this matter. I have secured releases from the owners of all the property affected by change of lines; rounding corners, etc. and I think there will be no legal difficulties.

I wish to say that I am in favor of this being done.

HANSEN-SIMPSON.

The marriage of Mr. H. Alfred Hansen of Hunnewell avenue, Newton, to Miss Carolyn E. Simpson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Simpson of Cambridge, took place Wednesday evening at North avenue Congregational church, Cambridge. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by the Rev. Edward Evans, the church being decorated with palms and white peonies, and filled with the many friends of the bridal couple.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore white messaline, with duchesse lace, the conventional veil and carried a large shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.
The maid of honor was Miss Hattie Simpson, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy White of Cliftondale and Miss Christine Hansen of Newton, sister of the groom.

The bridesmaids were dressed in yellow silk, with gold braid, cut embroidered with yellow slippers, yellow ribbons in the hair and carried baskets of marguerites. The best man was Mr.
Walter C. Billings of Brighton, and the ushers were Messrs Frank P. Scofield, Luther A. Hansen of Newton, Edward
M. Hill of Brookline, Dr. Alonzo J.
Shadman of West Roxbury, Elliot Emerson, Charles W. S. Wheeler, Sidney Curtis of Cambridge and Harry K.
Newhall of Brighton.

A largely attended reception followed at the Simpson residence on Upland road, Cambridge, which was decorated with palms, greens and white daisies. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs.
Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hansen. After a wedding trip to the White Mountains and Canada, Mr. and Mrs.
Hansen will spend the summer at the shore.

CRANDELL-GAUDELET.

Miss Elsie Chase Gaudet, the daughter of Mrs. W. C. Gaudet of Newtonville was married, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to Mr. Albert Crandell of Newton Highlands, at the home of the bride on Bowers street, the ceremony being performed by Rev.
Richard T. Loring of St. John's church.

The bride wore white china silk trimmed with lace and a tulle veil, fastened with lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of the same flower. Her sister, Miss Ethel M. Gaudelet was the maid of honor and was dressed in cream colored embroidered red muslin, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Alfred P. Kershaw of West Newton was the best man.
Miss Ruth Crandell played the wedding march. A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Crandell being assisted in receiving their friends by Mrs. Gaudet. Mrs. E. H. Cran-dell and Miss Gaudet. The ushers were Messrs. E. H. Crandell, Jr. and Arthur F. Lord of Worcester, and Benjamin J. Bowen of Newtonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Crandell will make their home at 50 Bowers street, Newtonville.

FARQUHAR-JOHNSON.

The wedding of Mr. John Farquhar, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Far-quhar of Sargent street, Newton to Miss Edith Clark Johnson, took place at the home of the bride, Chestnut street, Worcester at 12:30 o'clock on Wednesday, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Willard Scott, D. D. The bride wore a lace princess gown over messaline, a full bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of marguerites and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her niece, Mary Thompson, as flower girl. The guests included only the relatives of the couple and the reception which immediately followed was for the families only. The house was simply and effectively decorated with marguerites and palms with pink roses in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Farquhar will make their home in Boston.

LAWN FETE

The spacious house and grounds of Mr. W. H. Coolidge, on Gray Cliff road, Newton Centre, were the scene of an unusual festivity on Tuesday, when a lawn fete and musicale were given for the benefit of the Mothers' Rest Association by members of the Finance Committee, Mrs. Coolidge, the hostess, acting as chairman and assisted by interested friends and neighbors.

The afternoon was devoted to the entertainment of the children who assembled in large numbers attended by many of the "grown-ups." Amusements of all kinds were provided, including hurdy-hurdy music and dancing under the supervision of Mrs. E.
C. Sands, a graphophone concert conducted by Mrs. Sydney Farwell, for-time-telling arranged by Mrs. A. C.
Badger and Mrs. H. J. Carlson, and Punch and Judy show in charge of Mrs. Wm. P. Cooke, while a fascinating Humpty Dumpty dispensed grubs under the management of Mrs. C. E.
Kelsey. Two merry clowns, secured by Mrs. Tuttle, were encouraged to play their pranks on the greensward and furnish fun for the youngsters.
There were attractive booths where cake and candy were sold under the direction of Mrs. Norman H. George and Mrs. Wm. B. Merrill and alluring stands of lemonade and frappe were presided over by Mrs. A. D. Claffin and Mrs. E. B. Bowen.

Mrs. F. A. Mason took charge of the tickets and acted as general treasurer.
The committee on decorations consisting of Mrs. Robt. Casson and Mrs.
Charles Copeland deserve great credit for the effectiveness displayed.

The seating of the guests was carefully attended to by Mrs. Charles L.
Smith and Mrs. Merrill.

In the evening a soft breeze set the gay lanterns dancing; the electric lights brought out in strong relief the light, delicate colors of the ladies' gowns and intensified dark shadows of the shrubberies; dainty flower-maiden under the guidance of Miss Isabel Coolidge flitted about like white butterflies; and magic music floated out through open doors and windows, filling all hearts with a delicious sense of satisfaction and delight. The musical program was arranged by Mrs.
Allen Hubbard and was one of rare excellence. Those taking part included, Mrs. Farwell, soprano, Mrs. Marshall, contralto, Mr. Hicks, tenor, Mr.
Farwell, baritone, Mrs. Burt, cellist, Mrs. Hubbard, violinist, and Mrs.
Stratton, accompanist.

The occasion was an unqualified success both socially and financially the approximate sum of $500 having been realized, to add to the funds of the association.

ZOLLER-CHENEY.

Miss Edith Rockwood Cheney, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F.
Cheney of Newtonville, became the bride of Mr. William Henry Zoller of that village on Wednesday evening, the ceremony being performed at eight o'clock at the Cheney residence on Walnut street, by Rev. Albert Hammett of the Universalist church.

The bride wore a gown of embroidered net and her sister Miss Jennie H.
Cheney, the maid of honor was dressed in pink chiffon over pink silk. Mr.
Charles L. Hartshorne of Newtonville was the best man. A reception followed the ceremony until 10:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Zoller being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Cheney.

The ushers were Messrs H. Howard Cheney, and Elden H. Jennison of Newtonville, Mr. Arthur P. Pote of Newton, and Mr. Chas. H. Johnson of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Zoller will be at home after September 1st at 305 Cabot street, Newtonville.

—Mr. George Plott quietly observed his 88th birthday at his home on Walnut street, Thursday. Friends called during the afternoon and evening to offer congratulations and he was the recipient of many appropriate gifts.

—Miss Rosalind Kempton of Birch Hill road will receive flowers, fruits, and jellies for the flower missions on Tuesdays and Fridays of this month. All donations sent to Miss Kempton's house must be there by 8.30 on those mornings.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Willard Cooke have sent out cards for the marriage reception of their daughter, Miss Anne Bertha Cooke and Mr. George Warner Brown to follow the ceremony at 65 Bowers street, Wednesday, June 17th, from 8 to 10.

—A wedding of interest to friends here was that of Mr. Richard Webster of Highland avenue and Miss Helen Blanchard Ray of Roxbury. The ceremony took place in Roxbury June 3rd and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. J. A. McElwain.

—T. Stuart & Sons Co. are hustling the development of "Cabot Park Tract." The result promises an agreeable surprise to those who have seen this land as it has been for years. The tract is certain to be pleasing when the sale begins next Wednesday.

—The treasurers' team defeated the secretaries' team at the Albemarle golf club last Saturday afternoon by a score of 13½ to 10½. The winning team was made up of E. J. Cox, R. M. Reed, W. H. Rogers, H. F. Boal, G. E. Houghton, G. H. Fernald, L. B. Taylor, C. B. Somers.

—The local office of the owners of "Cabot Park Tract," the Suburban Improvement Co., has been established at 88 Bowers street, opposite station, where samples of the presents to be given away at the coming auction sales may be seen and plans of the land obtained. The office is open evenings, 6 to 9.30.

—Mrs. Margaret MacCradden, wife of Edward MacCradden died at the home of her son William B. MacCradden on Court street Monday, after a long period of failing health. Two sons survive her. The funeral was held from the house Wednesday morning at 8.15, high mass of Requiem followed at the church of Our Lady at 9 o'clock. The burial was in Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

—A special service was held last Sunday evening at the Congregational church. Short personal addresses were given by young missionaries of the American Board representing the fields of Africa, Turkey, Ceylon, China and Japan, descriptive of the work along evangelistic, educational and medical lines. The special musical program included singing by the Carle quartet and by some of the missionaries.

—In the baseball game on last Saturday, the "Men's Club" of the Universalist church defeated the "Central Club" of the Congregational church, with a score of 18-16. The features of the game were the wonderful decisions of the umpire, and the running away with the ball by a small boy, who was captured by Mr. Louis S. Ross in his automobile. It was a most interesting and exciting game. The teams met again at Cabot Park on the morning of June 17th, when the Congregationalists are going to try and get even.

Swimming races and an exhibition of household arts work took place Friday afternoon. The swimming events were private, but the exhibition attracted many visitors.

After showing their skill in fancy swimming, the seniors held a relay race and three straight races. In the relay event a team comprising Miss Jean Edmonds, Miss Charlotte Alley, Miss M. Harvey and Miss Sally Guething defeated that comprising Miss Stella Henderson, Miss Grace Harvey, Miss Ruth Young and Miss Amy Brannon.

The course for the other swimming races was twice around the large tank in the gymnasium building. Miss Amy Brannon won the first event, Miss Ruth Young the second and Miss Stella Henderson the third.

In Carter hall during the afternoon students dressed in gowns they had made themselves ushered visitors through the various rooms in which the work of sewing, dressmaking and millinery classes was on view. In the dining room there was an exhibition of pastry making by first year students. The sophomores exhibited model dinners, prepared at a cost of living estimated at 80 cents a day. In other rooms work of the art classes was shown.

LASELL CLASS DAY

Class day exercises were held Monday evening when the students marched in solemn array into the gymnasium, carrying a daisy chain made by juniors, which they looped over the stage. The procession, written by Miss Madeleine B. Lovett, was followed by a formal welcome by Miss Leona M. Bennett, class president. Miss Elizabeth M. Love gave the roll call. "Whispers from Mt. Olympus" was an address by Miss Lela H. Goodall, class secretary. "Once Again," given by Miss Sophia B. Mayer, was the class prophecy. The last will and testament was read by Miss Lovett. Miss Grace W. Emerson gave "A Tribute to Menosyne," while Miss Charlotte P. Ryder affectionately bid farewell to the family scene about the seminary in behalf of her classmates. The recessional was by Miss Bennett. Accompanied by juniors carrying flaming torches the seniors then marched to the campus near Karandon house. Here Miss Millie Smith bade goodby. From up in the "crows' nest" Miss Sara B. Millisen gave "The Last Call." In the witches' cauldron the seniors, led by Miss Gertrude Bragdon, then burned their books and other "treasures." Many parents and former students were present.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES

The 5th Regiment veteran association of which Alvin R. Bailey is president, will hold a reunion and have dinner in the Armory on Saturday, June 20th.

A new drum corps will be organized in the regiment, taking one from each company for that purpose. Capt. Guilford has acquired a desirable tract of land for a rifle range in Needham. In spite of the fact that the Claflin Guard had a longer distance to go to the range than any other company in the state, Capt. Guilford returned last year to the Inspector of Rifle Practice; 63 enlisted and 63 efficient with rifle and revolver, only two in the 5th Regt. did that and, the Claflin's were one of them.

On last Monday night a problem in "Attack and Defense" was worked out in the vicinity of Cabot woods, under the direction of Capt. Guilford. The "Brown Army" under Lieut. Coulter left the Armory at 8.20 to take up a position south of Newtonville avenue to prevent the passing of the "Blue Army," through Cabot's woods. The "Blues" left the Armory at 8.35 under the immediate command of 1st Sergt. Randall with Lieut. Daniels as umpire, to try to effect the passage. Quite a large number of spectators were present to witness Newton's first "sham battle" occupying all the points of vantage.

MR. KING DEAD

Those who have known Madame Isidora Martinez King, during her residence here in Newton, will extend to her their heartfelt sympathy in her grief at the sudden death, on Monday, June 8, of her husband, Mr. J. J. King. A stroke of apoplexy on Sunday followed by his death on Monday without regaining consciousness. It is rare that the lives of two people are so closely bound up in each other as were these two, and the widow is indeed desolate.

Whatever blows of ill fortune, and bitter trouble they endured together—and they were many—there was always a home and happiness and rest in the affection and companionship each of the other. Such has been their loyal, ardent and devoted love and confidence, for 22 years of married life.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2.30 at the rooms of Ger. W. Mills, undertaker; Rev. Richard T. Loring officiating. Interment at Newton cemetery.

RAILROAD REGULATION

The following speech of Hon. W. O. Faxon in the State Senate last week on the so-called "railroad regulation" bill is deemed of sufficient interest to publish in full.

Senator Faxon said:
The committee has fully realized the great importance of the "Merger" in connection with the transportation problem. The hearings have been many, lengthy and largely attended. The problems involve considerable law as well as difficult matters of fact. In order that I the more accurately and the more orderly may express my understanding of the conclusions reached by the committee unanimously I have committed to paper what I desire to state. I shall suggest so far as may seem required under these general divisions:

1. The existing law.
2. The existing conditions necessitating action by the legislature.
3. The legislation suggested to the committee.
4. The arguments for and against the main suggestions of legislation.
5. The conclusion of the committee that the Commonwealth take control of the situation and the bill designed to put that conclusion into effect.

Subject to certain expressed exceptions (pertaining to grain elevators, telegraph companies etc.) with which we are not in any way at this time concerned. The existing laws of Massachusetts prohibit a railroad corporation of Massachusetts from holding stock of any other corporation not incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts. So that any railroad corporation, say west of the Hudson river could purchase the stock of the Boston & Maine, or the stock of the New Haven without coming into conflict with any existing law of Massachusetts.

If the stock of either or both of these two prime New England transportation systems were acquired by the entirely foreign corporations of other states—as our laws are today—Massachusetts would be powerless to compel the surrender or to control such stock as Massachusetts might wish to do. Moreover, no relief could be had through any existing federal law. Whatever the consequence or detriment to Massachusetts and to all New England, Massachusetts would have to abide the pleasure of the entirely foreign corporations whose primary railroad interests would centre outside of New England.

While such is our existing law by accident the existing condition of the controlling stock (some 110,000 shares out of a total issue of a little less than 300,000) of the Boston & Maine is such that Massachusetts may dictate what shall be done now and hereafter with that controlling stock.

The existing condition of that controlling stock has arisen through the New Haven company acquiring in conflict with our laws—holdings in Massachusetts Street Railways and in the Boston & Maine. The acquisition of the trolley holdings has been considered by our supreme judicial court and decided to be unlawful on the grounds that in acquiring the trolley holdings the New Haven exceeded the powers granted to that company by Massachusetts.

All parties now assent that on the same ground the acquisition of the Boston & Maine stock by the New Haven company must be considered unlawful. The New Haven company still holds the Boston & Maine stock and waits to learn the will of Massachusetts as to its retention or disposition.

The trolley holdings are to be dealt with in a decree about to issue from our Supreme Court. The bill before the Senate does not deal with the trolley situation. The committee has elected to deal with the Boston & Maine stock and not with the trolley stock for the reason that the street railway corporations involved are sole creatures of Massachusetts, and with those corporations whatever happens to their stock in the way of ownership Massachusetts has absolute freedom to do as Massachusetts Legislature may determine to do at any time now or hereafter. The entire property of these trolley companies is located within Massachusetts, and under our existing law if the stock of those companies were acquired by an entirely foreign corporation our Supreme Judicial Court could dissolve the street railway corporations and so divorce the stock from the property and no party would have any legal right to complain. Clearly at this hour Massachusetts is not constrained to legislate about the trolley companies or otherwise of losing forever the control of these trolley companies. The situation with respect to the holdings of the controlling stock of the Boston & Maine is very different—and very gravely different.

The Boston & Maine corporation is not solely the creature of Massachusetts; that corporation is as much the creature of New Hampshire and of Maine as of Massachusetts. If the stock of the Boston & Maine were acquired by an entirely foreign corporation our Supreme Judicial Court could not dissolve the Boston & Maine corporation, even if Massachusetts were so disposed; moreover the legislature itself in the light of the late decision of our Supreme Judicial Court might encounter genuine difficulty in dealing with the charter of that corporation. All thoughtful citizens realize that so far as our statutes have gone beyond the point commonly supposed in relation to those corporations created jointly with other states equally far our statutes will be construed to have gone in protecting the interest of these same corporations. Since the New Haven has acquired the Boston & Maine stock unlawfully and still holds that stock and unless authorized now to continue to hold that stock must part with that stock the necessity of action by Massachusetts is pressing and all important. Massachusetts—if so desiring—can compel the New Haven Company to part with that stock; but at that very point the present power of Massachusetts is exhausted, Massachusetts cannot say—has no power to determine—to whom that stock shall be sold, or how that stock shall be sold, or to impose any conditions whatever upon the buyer of that stock.

Considering the entire conduct of the representatives of the New Haven company in the lengthy proceedings before the committee I feel warranted in saying that the New Haven company stands ready and willing to do with the Boston & Maine stock what Massachusetts may reasonably direct; and just there lies the opportunity of Massachusetts.

In determining what shall be submitted for consideration the committee has excluded the idea of punishment and determined that punishment should play no part whatever. No injury has been done to the Commonwealth which can be made even the basis of reparation. No moral wrong has been committed. The New Haven company—through its directors—has done the act of acquiring stock in the Boston & Maine—has shown the will, while lacking the power to purchase the stock control of the Boston & Maine. Unquestionably the directors believed, and had very good grounds for believing, that the New Haven company possessed the power to purchase the stock. Quite clearly the New Haven company believed that if this controlling block of stock, which was for sale, was bought by railroad interests centering outside of New England, the consequence would be detrimental to the New Haven company and to protect the company acquired the stock. The acquisition involved no dishonesty. The directors believed the company had the right to acquire the stock; and in consequence the acquisition had no element of taint of moral wrong. And in fairness and justice the conduct of the New Haven company since the acquisition cannot be made the basis of complaint; the company has simply held the stock obediently to the Cole bill believing that the company was simply holding stock the company had bought and had the right to buy. Furthermore, if punishment were inflicted where would that punishment rest or fall? Not upon the persons who are the directors and who actually directed the acquisition of the stock; those individuals cannot possibly be reached and punished, even if the Legislature desire so to do. The punishment would rest upon the individuals and institutions holding the stock and securities of the New Haven company; and over half of the individual stockholders of the New Haven company live in Massachusetts and 176 Savings Banks (out of the whole 189 in the Commonwealth) hold securities of the New Haven company. The number of individuals who hold securities in Massachusetts is unknown and unascertainable. Clearly these individuals and institutions have done no wrong; and do not deserve any punishment. Furthermore, whatever fine or other punishment were imposed upon the New Haven company would have to be borne ultimately by the public. So the committee has excluded the idea of punishment and has confined themselves to ascertaining what should be done to conserve and promote the solid industrial interests of the Commonwealth in view of our existing law and existing condition.

The committee has had propositions presented which fall substantially and practically into four divisions:

1. A complete merger—subject to regulating conditions.
2. No legislation at all.
3. Legislation compelling the New Haven company to sell the holding of Boston & Maine stock within a certain period—say before July 1st, 1910.
4. That the Commonwealth take over the holding of Boston & Maine stock.

The proposition of "No Legislation at all" and "Legislation compelling the New Haven to Sell" are really the same in effect; for if no legislation is enacted the New Haven company must part with the stock in question. The proposition to have the Commonwealth own the controlling stock is essentially government ownership; and would entail all the responsibility and care of maintenance and operation without complete control. So far as urged this remedy was urged as the last resort should no satisfactory and safe way be found to have the stock owned by parties other than the Commonwealth.

In the main "Merger" and "No Merger" were in issue. Among the advocates of merger were the official representatives of the New Haven company and the Boston & Maine and Business Men's Merger League. Among the opponents of the Merger were representatives of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the New England Shoe and Leather Association and representatives of private shareholders in the Boston & Maine.

The advocates of the merger claimed that the operation of the two systems jointly would result in economy of time and money for shippers and travellers and for the companies. This could be accomplished through various means. The single control of the entire vast volume of traffic into and out of New England would enable the New England Companies to assert themselves more effectively than at present in the traffic association which fix through rates between New England and the South and West and North; to have an influence in all arrangements between the New England system and the Great Trunk Lines which influence New England has not today and from the very nature of things cannot have so long as New England is divided into halves and without a single common interest and the single control. The vast importance of this claim, if warranted, cannot be over-estimated. In view of the fact that New England is primarily a manufacturing community far removed from sources of raw material and fuel and the markets for our finished products. The union of the railroads too would permit the elimination of charges and delays incidental and inevitable on all freight shipped in less than carload lots between northern and southern New England, and in consequence would bring northern and southern New England into closer relations than exist today, the lack of which is owing in large part to these very charges and delays. In addition, the differentials obtaining on the Boston & Maine system on freight going over the Canadian lines would be extended over the New Haven system and the differentials obtaining on the New Haven on freight south bound would be extended over the Boston & Maine system. Joint operation too would furnish a remedy for such distress as experienced a year and two years ago in northern New England and Massachusetts when the Boston & Maine system was congested by excessive traffic; the excess would be and could have been diverted from the Boston & Maine system to the New Haven system, and thus bring about free and easy movement of traffic throughout all New England. The united systems could command far greater financial resources which would permit vast improvements in the way of terminals and equipment; permit the improvement through electrification tunnels and otherwise in and about large centres such as Boston. Furthermore, the vast volume of extra traffic from the great and growing Canadian northwest could be drawn to Boston, which indeed seems the natural port for that business, provided only proper connection could be made by expending the necessary money. Again and not at all the least desirable result—surely, inevitably—Boston would become the chief centre of management of the capital headquarters of the united systems. Boston would again become a place of importance in the railroad world.

The opponents of the Merger claimed the Merger would result in monopoly of all transportation facilities in New England and bring surely and inevitably untold evils. The managers being human would be actuated by the selfishness to enrich the corporation at the expense and to the injury of the entire community and that this would be accomplished through manipulation in ways past finding out; that such effective regulation by State legislation is impossible; that only the smaller part of the traffic on the systems could be dealt with by the State since the greater portion of the traffic is inter-state traffic and wholly within the Federal jurisdiction; that the New Haven has shown disregard of public sentiment, and a determination to monopolize transportation regardless of cost; that the New Haven is a foreign corporation managed by aliens; that the effective management of so large a railroad system is impossible; that the Boston & Maine and New Haven are competitive systems, and the union would destroy benefits of existing competition; that the Merger would be a political as well as an industrial menace; that the New Haven company should be compelled to dispose of the Boston & Maine stock; and that the New England traffic has reached its limit in volume on freight of all classifications, and that the result of the vast improvements suggested by the New Haven company could result only in the increase of fixed charges which would have to be paid from increase charges on the existing traffic; and that the ideal result "would be the introduction of a third great competitive trunk line, operating between Boston and Great Lake or beyond". Furthermore, the opponents of the Merger claim that the New Haven company in the policy of expansion has incurred financial burdens involving peril—that the Boston & Maine is so much sounder financially that the public would be injured through the Merger; for in effect the Merger would weaken the financial soundness of the Boston & Maine; and that the monopoly would be operated in the interest of the New England States other than Massachusetts. Clearly the gains enumerated by the advocates would be highly beneficial and the evils enumerated by the opponents would be severely detrimental so far as the claims of either are sound. The committee has had the benefit of the report of the Commission on Commerce and Industry which added very materially in enabling the committee to see clearly the financial status of the New Haven company; the attacks which have been made on the financial strain of the New Haven company were unwarranted and the New Haven company is well able to do, so far as finances are concerned, whatever the Commonwealth may authorize that company to do.

In the light of all the information brought before the committee, the committee has unanimously agreed that the information is insufficient to be the basis on which to predicate legislation to determine now the permanent solution of the transportation problem. Unanimously the committee presents a bill, the design and effect of which are that the Commonwealth take control of the existing situation and prevent all changes in the ownership of the Boston & Maine and the New Haven; and to keep and exercise that control until Massachusetts shall have conducted an investigation to obtain the necessary information for the basis on which to predicate legislation to make a permanent solution of the transportation problem for Massachusetts and New England.

The bill presented in no wise conflicts with the proceedings instituted in the Federal Courts. Those proceedings are founded on the theory that the conduct of the New Haven company has been in violation not of any state law or without the authority of the Commonwealth but in violation of a Federal law, the so-called Sherman Act. The decision in those proceedings cannot now be foretold; new questions certainly are involved; the question must be decided whether or not trolley lines are competitors or feeders of steam railroads; whether or not all New England must be regarded and considered on the principles which should govern one grand terminal, or switching yard; and whether or not the Inter-state Commerce Commission were wrong in their opinion that the Boston & Maine and the New Haven were connecting and not competing systems. Whatever the decision in these proceedings ultimately, this bill will adjust itself to that decision and provide expressly to do so.

The Bill has 9 sections. Sections 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, and 8 apply to all railroad corporations including the New Haven company. Sections 3, 4 and 9 are confined in application to the New Haven company with the respect to the present holdings of the Boston & Maine stock. Section 1 provides that no railroad corporation shall acquire stock in a Massachusetts railroad.

PURE, RICH, MILK

Our milk is supplied from the dairies, the superior character of which is shown by the following description of one of them: There is a separate cow stable, with concrete floor and whitewashed walls and ceiling. A milk room adjoins at one end, sheathed and plastered, with a cement floor. This room contains an aerator and a refrigerator. The stable is warmed in the coldest weather by hot water. The stock is pure Jersey, inspected by the State, and examined before purchase. Have other dairies which are managed with equal care. Take your milk from clean, well inspected sources.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular drug listed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

corporation unless expressly authorized to do so by a statute of this Commonwealth. This section prohibits foreign corporations as well as domestic corporations. Section 2 provides that all stock lawfully acquired shall be registered forthwith and unless registered cannot be voted. This will prevent the use of subsidiary companies and agencies to acquire stock. Section 5 provides that the railroad commissioners shall investigate the whole railroad situation in the Commonwealth and report to the General Court on or before January 12, 1910; and to report particularly upon the disposition of the Boston & Maine stock held by the New Haven company. The Commissioners are given ample powers to conduct a thorough investigation. Section 6 provides that any stock unlawfully acquired shall not draw dividends or give the right to vote. Section 7 provides severe penalties for violation of the act and attempts to violate the act. These penalties are the same as provided in the Sherman Act. Section 8 gives to the Supreme Judicial Court jurisdiction to compel the observance and restrain the violation of the act.

Of the sections confined in application to the New Haven company Section 3 provides that unless otherwise ordered by some Federal Court the New Haven company may continue holding the Boston & Maine stock until July 1st, 1910; and to receive all allotment of new stock on their present holdings and to receive dividends on the stock held. And further provides that none of the shares of the stock mentioned shall be disposed of or affected by any agreement in respect of the ownership, except with the approval of the Board of Railroad Commissioners. Section 4 provides that the voting power of the Boston & Maine stock held by the New Haven company shall be exercised by the Railroad Commissioners of the Commonwealth as the Commissioners may deem to be for the best interests of the Commonwealth. Section 9 provides for the acceptance by the New Haven company of the conditions set out in sections 3 and 4 of the Act. If the New Haven company does not accept as permitted to do in section 9, the sections 1, 2, 5, 6, 7 and 8 which apply to all railroad corporations, including the New Haven company—all these sections will become a law in thirty days.

The bill is simple, brief and clear and without doubt will accomplish the purpose which the committee unanimously consider should be the purpose of the Commonwealth at this time.

For myself I desire to add in closing that in the course of considering our problem I have come to believe that the question of transportation for Massachusetts and New England is the most important with which I have the honor and privilege of having a duty to discharge. The ultimate permanent solution shall affect deeply for better or for worse all industry of New England. At times the conflicting views and opinions submitted to the committee seemed extremely difficult to adjust, and the dangers and difficulties suggested seemed possibly beyond State control; yet I believe the committee has succeeded in its work, and I am gratified in having the pleasure of presenting to the Senate the report of the committee unanimously.

The committee has been very materially assisted by the very able representatives both advocates and opponents who have appeared to advise and assist. So long as committees of our Legislature are advised and assisted by men of the character and ability of such men as Mr. J. B. Warner, Mr. T. E. Byrnes, Mr. L. E. Brandells and Mr. Bernard J. Rothwell—and that very many men of whom all New England is proud—Mr. Lucius Tuttle—I say while such men appear before our committees to assist and to advise, Massachusetts need have no fear, but that ultimately the transportation problem shall be wisely settled. So that in the future as in the past Massachusetts shall have a leading place in commerce and industry, and New England as well as Massachusetts will enjoy true progress, and more than ever Boston shall be the Hub of the Universe.

THEATRES

Kelth's Theatre—The annual visit to Kelth's of those popular farceurs, John C. Rice and Sally Cohen is always one of the events of the season for they never fail to present a swiftly moving sparkling witty skit. A dancing act, one of the best seen in vaudeville, done by the Six American Dancers, who have been one of the real season, Earl C. Reynolds and Nellie Donagan are now doing a roller-skating act that is in a class by itself. The Four Flood Brothers, unusually clever acrobatic comedians; Herbert Cyril, "The London Johnnie," with his catchily-sung English patter songs; The Kikandas, two very expert Japanese acrobats and jugglers; Collins and Brown, a pair of droll Dutch comedians; Wood and Lawson, singers and dancers; Polk and Polk, acrobats and equilibrists; Harry Bobker, in character impersonations, and new Kinetograph pictures will be all among the numbers on a pleasing program.

Boston Theatre—For next week's attraction at the Boston Theatre one of the greatest comedies ever written for the stage will be presented. As a matter of fact "A Texas Steer" is a political satire. It satirized life in Washington. The story of the piece—and it had a story—centered around Maverick Brander, a Texan who was elected to Congress without his knowledge and who after arriving there, endeavored to break into Washington society. Mr. Wilson Melrose will have the leading part as Maverick Brander and the other members of the Boston Theatre stock company will also have splendid parts. Miss Mary Sanders appearing as Bossie; Miss Rose Morrison as Mrs. Brander; Mr. Parker as Captain Bright; Mr. Mac Larnie as Brander's Gail and Mr. Walker as Colonel Yell.

STRAW HATS THAT FIT PERFECTLY.
Lamson & Hubbard Have a Complete Range of Sizes, as Well as Every Style and Weave.

In warm weather men take pride in pleasure and comfort from a good light-weight, stylish and perfect fitting straw hat. It is hard to get that perfect fit which allows a man, while wearing one, to disregard a stiff breeze, but Lamson & Hubbard at their two retail stores, 92 Bedford and 173 Washington streets, can guarantee such a perfect fitting hat, even for extremely large or unusually small heads. The wonderful variety of styles, weights and braids in the straw hats the firm is showing is unequalled by any other store in the country.

Because of the tremendous wholesale business the firm does all over the United States, its customers enjoy exceptional scope in range of styles and sizes when buying a Panama, Sonnet, Porto Rican, Milan, Split Dunstable, or any of the popular lines of sailors or the soft roll-brim hats.

There is a hat to please every taste, a size to fit every head, and prices are right, and the firm's name is a guarantee of its wearing qualities.

TENNIS
Newton Centre squash tennis club won one match in singles and two in doubles from Brae Burn country club's tennis team on the latter's club's courts at West Newton Saturday. The most interesting match was the second one in singles, in which Plympton of Newton Centre defeated Leonard of Brae Burn only after fast playing. The scores: Singles—Hall, Brae Burn, beat Wilbur, Newton Centre, 6-4, 6-3. Plympton, Newton Centre, beat Leonard, Brae Burn 3-7, 6-1, 6-1. Doubles—Wales and Spear, Newton Centre, beat E. P. Woods and Leonard, Brae Burn, 6-4, 6-1. Hovey and Blakemore, Newton Centre, beat E. Woods and Hall, 6-0, 6-2. On the Brae Burn courts last Saturday the state champions in doubles, C. F. and H. F. Johnson of Newton Highlands, were defeated by Wright and Sulloway in straight sets.

AUBURNDALE IMPROVEMENT

The novel complaint that there are too many shade trees in Auburndale was made in a meeting of the Auburndale village improvement society held Tuesday evening in Norumbega hall.

Numerous other matters of proposed local improvement were also discussed, among them being further extermination of moth pests, need of sidewalks on Melrose street street lighting and electric car service. The secretary was authorized to request the local street railway company to start two cars an hour inward over Commonwealth avenue boulevard with one-third of the seats unoccupied, in order that passengers boarding the cars along the boulevard may find seats. During the rush hours and on Sundays and holidays at present, it was stated by P. A. McVicker, who made the suggestion, the cars are crowded when they leave Norumbega park.

President Colon S. Ober reported that nearly sufficient funds had been secured for buying land near the railroad station for park purposes. It was decided to unite with the Review club, a women's organization, in conducting a series of entertainments next season to raise funds for carrying on the work of village betterment. A new entertainment committee was elected, comprising Rufus Estabrook, Mrs. Mary E. Herron of the Review club, C. B. Conn, Charles W. Blood and T. W. Gore. The election of other officers will take place next autumn.

THEOLOGICAL GRADUATES

Marching from the main building at the summit of Institution hill at Newton Centre the students of Newton theological institution assembled Wednesday morning at the First Baptist church for graduating exercises.

The edifice was filled with alumni, parents and other friends. James P. Berkeley made an address on "Mysticism and the Preacher." Leon J. Brace spoke on "The Relation of the Church to the Labor Problem" and another senior, William G. Emerson, read a paper on "The Modern Minister."

F. Denghausen sang Handel's "Where'er ye Walk," after which three more seniors read interesting papers. Robert H. Pratt's subject was "Consolidation in the Work of the Kingdom." Arthur G. Roberts contributed a paper on "The Ministry and the Social Conscience" and John H. Thompson chose for his subject "Preaching the Doctrine of God."

Mr. Denghausen then sang Lehmann's "Mirage," which was followed by presentation of diplomas and conferring of degrees by President Nathan E. Wood. Dr. Wood also made an annual address to the class, but in this capacity he served for the last time, as he recently tendered his resignation to take effect on Jan. 1 next. There were organ selections by John H. Loud.

Those receiving diplomas and their theses were as follows: Ernest N. Armstrong, "Origin and Development of Baptist Churches." James P. Berkeley, "How Did Jesus Regard His Own Death?"

Albert McK. Boggs, "The Religion of the Vedas." Leon J. Brace, "Final Authority in Religion."

Earle W. Darrow, "The Social Teaching of the New Testament." William G. Emerson, "Final Authority in Religion."

Cassius O. Howlett, "Ethical Content of Moral Freedom." Elias C. Miller, "The Origin and Development of Baptist Churches in the South."

Robert H. Pratt, "The Gospel Narratives of the Resurrection Critically Compared."

Hard L. Pratt, "The Origin and Development of Baptist Churches." Arthur G. Roberts, "How Did Jesus Regard His Own Death?"

John H. Thompson, "Ezekiel's Idea of God."

Cassius A. Ward, "The Origin and Development of Baptist Churches in the South."

Degrees of bachelor of divinity were conferred upon 14 for completing the regular course with decided credit and taking honors in some special study, as follows: James P. Berkeley, Albert McK. Boggs, Leon J. Brace, Bertram C. Bugbee, A. Franklin Colver, Earle W. Darrow, Cassius O. Howlett, Elias C. Miller, Robert H. Pratt, Arthur G. Roberts, John H. Thompson and Cassius A. Ward.

Non resident candidates receiving the degree were Frank L. Cann '04, William A. Hill '04, York A. King '09 and George E. Tompkinson, McMaster university '07.

These exercises were followed by the annual dinner contributors, alumni and guests in Bray hall at 12:45. The academic year was brought to a close at 4 with a reception by the students in Hills library.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The base ball team won last Saturday from the All Stars of Cambridge by the score of 8 to 2. F. Belding for Newton struck out 14 men. Next Saturday the team plays away from home at Ipswich.

A fishing trip is being planned for June 17th. The younger boys go for an outing June 13th to the Lynn woods.

The sixth annual state meet of Y. M. C. A.'s of Mass. and R. I. will be held Saturday, June 20th at the Riverside Recreation grounds. The Junior events begin at 9.30 A. M. and the Senior at 2 P. M. The aquatic events at 4 P. M. Tickets may be had at the local Y. M. C. A.

As the members and friends of the Newton association have given over $100. to aid the Chelsea Y. M. C. A. this report will be of interest to Newton people. It covers the first month's work under canvass.

The tent in which the Chelsea Association has been housed since the fire which destroyed its building is 50x80, and has a good, substantial board floor. The attendance has averaged 200, on some days running considerably in excess of this and on other cold, wet days of which we have had a great many, running way below this figure.

Relief has been attempted only with members and those known to us as sufferers. Some of our members escaped from their homes with only their old clothes which they had put on after laying aside their best ones to fight the fire.

Mr. —, who roomed in the dormitories put on old clothes to fight the flames. He only saved what he had on. He found shelter Sunday night in the Soldiers' Home. The Y. M. C. A. was immediately in touch with him, furnished sleeping accommodations for five nights, fitted him out with clothes and found work for him. This is only one in many similar examples of the Association's relief work.

Several boxes and barrels of clothing were distributed where we knew they did good. The balance of our relief work was carried on in co-operation with the central relief committee.

Sunday meetings were instituted on the Sunday after the fire and have been held every Sunday afternoon with the exception of one Sunday when it stormed. The attendance averaged 200 for the four meetings.

A first Aid to the Injured class with an enrollment of 12 is being conducted under the direction of Roscoe E. Wells of the National First Aid Association. A first Aid Station with full field hospital equipment is installed in the tent under the direction of the National First Aid Association. A physician has also been in attendance for more than half the time from 11 to 4 o'clock. He has been asked to treat bruises and one case of blood poisoning.

Correspondence and Reading Table privileges are provided. Several games are included in the equipment. A piano is often the centre of a circle. A small lunch counter is finding devotees who like to eat out of doors. A small circulating library of one hundred volumes has just been put into use.

Considerable work has been attempted for boys. 3 gymnasium classes were conducted and some 30 boys have enrolled for a class in elementary first aid.

Plans for the future which are pretty well matured include socials, Bible classes, and outings.

C. H. POTTER, Sec'y.

The following officers of the Auxiliary were recently elected:

President, Mrs. J. Elliot Trowbridge; vice presidents, Mrs. L. E. Moore, Mrs. Orlando Mason; secretary, Mrs. Chas. G. Peterson; treasurer, Miss Bertha Moore; board of managers: Elliot, Mrs. F. W. Ganse; Baptist, Mrs. E. J. H. Esterbrook; Episcopal, Miss C. L. Bullens; Methodist, Mrs. George Barker; devotional, Mrs. R. E. Barker; finance, Mrs. H. E. Barker, Mrs. John H. Robinson; social, Mrs. Wm. Deutshle; rooms, Miss Annie Norris; visiting and flowers, Mrs. Virginia Emery; pantry, Mrs. H. G. Reid; auditor, Mrs. Percy Kenway; membership committee, Mrs. F. A. Dodge, Mrs. S. M. Lucas, Miss M. E. Mason, Mrs. J. L. Bailey, Mrs. Chas. Lawrence, Mrs. D. F. Barber, Mrs. Moses Clark, Mrs. Edward Warren.

The retiring president, Mrs. L. E. Moore leave the auxiliary in a flourishing condition. Her term of service extended over a period of three years. 25 new members were received at the last meeting and greater success seems assured under the new officers.

MRS JUDKIN'S WILL.

Many charitable institutions named in the will of Mary F. Judkins, late of Newton have something to look forward to. The amount mentioned for charity is $27,000.

The testatrix left $5000 to her adopted daughter, Elizabeth A. Judkins, also to other articles. The balance was left to George D. Harvey and George W. Auryanssen, in trust, the entire income to be paid to Miss Judkins, until she is 30 years old, when the principal shall go to her. In case she dies without leaving issue, or without having made a will disposing of the estate, a number of charities will benefit.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Newton high school's tennis team took two matches in singles and one in doubles from Wellesley high on the Neighborhood club court at West Newton Saturday afternoon, one of the matches in singles being won by default. The scores: Singles—Whitney, Wellesley high, beat Woods, Newton high, 8-6, 10-8. Hall, Newton high, beat Sibley, Wellesley high, by default. Holbrook, Newton high, beat Shepard, Wellesley high, 6-3, 6-4. Donahue-Woods and Hall, Newton high, beat Whitney and Sibley, Wellesley high, 5-7, 6-3.

Miss Rachel Whidden has been elected captain of the girl's basketball team for next year.

Miss Marguerite Brant's words for the senior class ode were the ones chosen by the English department.

Miss Miriam Fuller has been awarded the salutatorian honors for graduation for having the highest percent in her studies of anyone in the senior class.

Parishioners of the church of the Sacred Heart at Newton Centre presented Rev. Dennis J. Wholey, their former pastor, $1000 in a farewell reception to him in Bray hall Monday evening. The reception was a dual one, being also a formal welcome to the new pastor Rev. Daniel C. Riordan.

Among the priests present from neighboring parishes were Rev. P. H. Callahan and Rev. John J. McGrath of St. John's church, Newton Lower Falls; Rev. Timothy J. Danahy and Rev. Dennis Donovan of St. Mary's, Newton Upper Falls; Rev. Francis Cronin of St. Bernard's, West Newton; Rev. James F. Kelley and Rev. A. S. Malone of the Church of Our Lady, Newton.

The program began with orchestral selections, after which the Sunday school under direction of Miss Mildred Levi sang "Priest of the Most High." The selected choir rendered "The Lord is My Shepherd." Piano selections were given by Mrs. Myrtle Morse.

Miss Juliet King read the parish resolutions on the transfer of Fr. Wholey to the permanent rectorship of St. Joseph's church, Roxbury. A welcome song in honor of Fr. Riordan was rendered by the children. Patrick McGrath contributed a poem.

John Barry then gave a formal farewell to Fr. Wholey and a sincere welcome to Fr. Riordan on behalf of the parishioners. Frank Hurley presented Fr. Wholey the purse.

The affair was brought to a successful close by a reception by Fr. Wholey and Fr. Riordan. The hall was artistically decorated with palms, potted plants and flowers.

With the assistance of Rev. James F. Hurley, assistant pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, the arrangements were in charge of a committee comprising Thomas Mullen chairman, John Barry, Miss Mary Hart, Thomas King, Jacob King, Frank Levi, John Foley, Frank Hurley, Miss Nora Daley, Miss Nora Coleman, James Waters, Louis A. Vachon, Daniel McDonald, Thomas Mullen, John Kneeland, Michael Mullen, Michael Furdon, Patrick Foley, Mrs. Hugh Burns, James Doyle, Mrs. Timothy Galvin, Miss Margaret Roddy, Miss Elizabeth Levi, Miss Nora Mahoney, Miss Mary McCarthy, Miss Nora Reagan, Miss Margaret Waters, Mrs. Hugh Clifford, James Walsh, John E. Cannon, Mrs. E. Bolclair, Miss Mary McGrath, Miss Annie Lennan, James Dugan, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Mary Smith, William Mella, Miss Mary Coleman, Miss Mary Flizsimmons and Daniel Horgan.

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstance or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in Shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson.

For particulars and rates, address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 6t 252 Green St., Cambridge.

CLUBS AND LODGES

District Deputy High Chief Ranger John Flood was completely surprised Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of St. Bernard's court, M. C. O. F., when the High Chief Ranger William Cahill presented him with a handsome mahogany rocking chair upholstered in leather. Speeches were also made by W. H. Mague, F. C. Sheridan, Daniel Kneeland and B. D. Farrell. Mr. Flood completes three years' service as Deputy on July 1st.

The Newton Summer School of Theology will be held June 16-26 at the Newton Theological Institution, Newton Centre. Its lecture courses will be of special interest to Bible students and Sunday School workers, both men and women. Special tickets including admission to all lectures may be obtained for the fee of Five Dollars from the Secretary, Rev. C. D. Gray, 15 Windemere road, Boston. The program is as follows:

June 16-20—8.30 A. M. Professor Anderson, "The Epistle to the Romans."

9.50 A. M. Professor Wood, "The Person and Work of Christ."

11.10 A. M. Professor Rowe, "Social History of Christianity."

June 22-26—8.30 A. M. Professor Donovan, "Patriot Prophets of the Eighteenth Century B. C."

9.50 A. M. Professor English, "The Elements of an Effective Ministry."

11.10 A. M. Professor Hoar, "The Puritan Movement."

MR. BRAY'S WILL

One million dollars will go to charity as a result of the will of Ellen Bray of Newton Centre, who left an estate worth $1,753,000, being allowed by Judge McIntire in the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge. Each of the executors, who are trustees also under the will, were obliged to file a bond for $2,500,000. They are: Ellen N. Bray of Boston, and William C. Bray of Newton Centre, sons of Mr. Bray, and Joseph B. Warner of Boston. The estate consists of $353,000 in real and $1,400,000 in personal estate. After the bequests are paid there will be left $1,000,000 for charity.

These public bequests are made: Newton Home for Aged People, $5000; Baptist Bethel, Boston, $1000; American Baptist Home Mission Society for the church edifice fund, $2000; a codicil states that the reason for revoking a bequest of $5000 to the Newton Hospital is that he gave an equivalent to the institution during his lifetime.

The trustees are absolutely authorized at any time to pay out any sums whether principal or income for charitable uses and purposes, including gifts to any such needy persons as they may desire to help.

The will is dated July 21, 1904. The appraisers are: Roger S. Warner of Boston, Frank L. Richardson of Newton and George E. Strout of Malden.

Henry H. Read has leased the following houses in Newton Centre, Mrs. Danley's house, 741 Beacon street, to Windsor W. Berry; Z. S. Arnold's house, No. 25 Pleasant street to Prof. W. X. Donovan; Lincoln Greene's house, No. 372 Cabot street, Newtonville, to Mr. Wm. Quinby, who moves here from Cambridge.

Tremont Theatre.—The sheath gown, the newest sensational Parisian fad in women's modes, is being worn publicly in Boston, and, naturally, every woman in New England will want to see it. "A Knight for a Day" the tremendous musical gaiety success at the Tremont introduces the costume. One of the prettiest of the company's fifty attractive young women wears it. General judgment says the effect is piquant without being immodest. But the sheath gown is only one of the novelties marking the entrance into a third big week of the Tremont's hilarious show. "Hang out the front door key," a new comic ditty, sung by Miss May Vokes, "the servant lady" of the piece, is an added feature that is increasing the frolic's big store of laughs at each performance. BUSY GRADUATION WEEK

This is graduation week in the public schools, closing exercises in the grammar schools having concluded yesterday afternoon and those for the high school being scheduled for tomorrow. It is a week of more than passing interest not only for the several hundred pupils who receive diplomas, but for a large number of parents, relatives and other friends of the young people.

A particularly pleasing feature of the exercises in the grammar schools was the general excellence of the programs given by the graduates themselves. A number of classes presented dramatic sketches with ability that would have done credit to persons a great deal more experienced in the difficult art. As tokens of their love for the schools in which they had studied for several years a number of the classes left handsome memorials, which will be highly prized.

The exercises began Tuesday, when at 9.30 A. M. the Hyde school at Newton Highlands held its graduation. The Hamilton school at Newton Lower Falls had its exercises at 2.30 P. M. The Horace Mann and Claffin schools at Newtonville at 4 P. M. and the Ralph Waldo Emerson school at Newton Upper Falls at 8 P. M. Wednesday morning at 9.30 the exercises at the Roger Wolcott school at Waban took place, followed at 10.30 by graduation in the Peirce school at West Newton.

Two of the largest grammar schools of the city held their exercises Thursday, those at the Bigelow school in Newton taking place at 9.30 A. M., and those at the Mason school, Newton Centre, at 3.30 P. M.

Tomorrow afternoon the high school graduation will take place in the assembly hall, Newtonville, at 2.30 P. M. The exercises will be open to the public.

Mason grammar school, Newton Centre, Thursday, June 18, 3.30 P. M., assembly hall.

MR. FRANK H. HITCHCOCK

A Newton voter is the center of things political this week in Chicago, and it is needless to say, that he is an exceedingly busy and important man.

Mr. Frank H. Hitchcock is a clean cut, trim looking slender man of about forty years of age, with light hair and long lean smooth shaven face. My first glimpse of him was in the long marble corridor of the Auditorium Annex thru which crowds of people were surging to and fro. I was with a college classmate of Mr. Hitchcock's, and we waited for a chance to speak with him. Mr. Hitchcock was standing at one side of the corridor, and was kept constantly engaged in shaking hands with this one and that.
He would no sooner finish a few seconds conversation with one, and take one step towards us, when he would be buttonholed by some one else. He shook one man's hand in the passing crowd, saying at the same time, "I want to speak to you a minute." This gentleman came and stood at my side, and it was fully fifteen minutes before Mr. Hitchcock could reach him. In the twenty minutes I watched him in that corridor, he must have spoken to at least fifty different persons. The strain upon his physique must have been tremendous, but he was in great good humor, as well he might be.

Mr. Hitchcock is a native of Ohio and lived a few years in Wisconsin, coming to Somerville when a boy in his teens. He is remembered by his boyhood friends as a born ball player, albeit he could not afford the time to indulge in the sport when in college.
His interest in things political was inherited from his father, a clergyman, who was an ardent political reformer.
During his college life he was active in politics and his rise in the political world, has not been as rapid as one would imagine. It is true that his name has only been in the papers during the last four or five years, but ever since his graduation from Harvard in 1901 he has been in official position at Washington.

He began with a clerkship under the commission which was building the Washington postoffice. Thru civil service he then secured a position in the Division of Biology of the Dept. of Agriculture, this was followed by clerkships in the department library and in the statistical division. When the section of Foreign Markets was organized Mr. Hitchcock was first the assistant chief and was then promoted to the position of chief. His work here first attracted higher official attention as his system of bulletins on the conditions abroad were carefully prepared and issued at the psychological moment. When the new department of Commerce and Labor was established, Mr. Hitchcock was the chief clerk and virtually organized that work. He left this position during the campaign of 1904 to act as assistant secretary of the Republican National Committee, and after election was secretary of the Inauguration committee, and carried out at the burdensome details of that office, with his usual skill. President Roosevelt appointed him Asst. Postmaster General in 1905, a position he resigned last winter, to take up the management of the Taft campaign.

During his life in Washington Mr.
Hitchcock attended the Columbian Evening Law School, with Secretary Cortelyou, and graduated with the highest honors. He has been admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the U. S. as well as to subordinate courts.

One who knows him well says that his success has come thru hard, persistent work, performed with absolute faithfulness and loyalty.

Mr. Hitchcock has been a voter in Waban for the past two years, and claims Newton as his birthplace.

ESTABROOK-COLEGROVE.

In the presence of a large number of friends Miss Josephine F. Colegrove and Rufus Estabrook of Auburndale were united in marriage on Monday evening at 7.45 at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren S. Colegrove, 62 Webster street, West Newton. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the First Unitarian church was the officiating clergyman. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion the couple standing under an arch of pink sweet peas before an altar of palms and ferns. The hall was draped with wreaths of laurel and peonies and the dining room decorations were of sweet peas and roses.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white messaline silk over white taffeta, trimmed with rose point lace and white chiffon. She wore a white tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies.

Miss Marion Colegrove, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and was dressed in pink silk with over pink taffeta with trimming of filet lace, and carried pink sweet peas.

The best man was C. Luther Bourne of Auburndale, and the ushers were Leicester Potter of Boston and Charles D. Walkins of Cambridge.

Both the wedding march (Loben-grin) and the music during the reception was furnished by Miss Ethel Fleu of West Newton and Miss Olive Herriek of Dorchester, friends of the bride.

The reception was from 8.15 to 9.30 and besides the bride and groom the receiving line consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Estabrook, Mr. and Mrs.
W. S. Colegrove and Miss Marion Colegrove.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Estabrook will reside at 61 Islington road, Auburndale.

LIFE-SAVING PRACTICE.

Chief Gilman of the local reservations of the metropolitan parks, Monday inaugurated a valuable drill for the officers attached to the Auburndale station. To make themselves even more proficient in life saving work the men start individually from the farther end of the station piazza, run its length of 60 feet, slide down a pole to the float, pull a knot in a rope holding a rowboat and send the craft to the farther side of the river.
Although the stream is wide opposite the station this feat was done in 33 seconds. Chief Gilman will have the drill continued in an effort to cut the time to exactly a half minute, believing the first requirement in an emergency is for the officers to be on the scene in the quickest possible time.

BANK OFFICERS OUTING.

Little pink tickets were as good as certified checks for purchasing recreation at the annual field day of the Bank Officers' association, at Riverside, Saturday afternoon and evening.
Upward of 1000 members and guests laid aside dull care and joined enthusiastically in a varied program.
Fair weather never better favored the bank men.

Two long special trains brought the officers and their guests direct to the upper entrance of the recreation grounds. Teams representing the trust companies and the national banks immediately began an annual 6-inning baseball game, the trust companies' employees winning again this year, 6 to 4.

Bentley, pitching for the winning aggregation, played an admirable game and fanned out batsmen with ability of a veteran. There was keen vigorous applause, particularly when rivalry and at times spectators lent basemen yielded to curiosity by lifting up bases to see what was under them and thereby allowed opponents to steal. The line up:

A series of water sports in the big pool afforded amusement during the latter part of the afternoon. This feature was provided by members of the Brookline swimming club.
James B. Greene gave a splendid demonstration of his water polo skills, many seemingly impossible feats, and concluded with a demonstration of life saving. His entrance into the pool created a flutter of excitement, for he fell off a 30-foot diving tower while dressed in his street clothes. L. G.
Rich gave his "Monte Cristo scuba dive," a sort of aquatic Houdini stunt. A costume race, in which one of the contestants swam in hoopskirts and others wore women's clothing evoked great amusement.

Under a large canvas luncheon was served from 5 to 7. Launches and canoes were placed at the disposal of the guests, and a large number enjoyed cruises down the river. During the afternoon and evening a band played selections from bank officers' operated, beginning with a march dedicated to Gov. Guild, and the celebratory song "If a double-b l-a-n-a-n dancing followed in both halls of the pavilion from 8 to 10.30.

The entertainment committee, to whom much credit was due for smoothness with which the outing was conducted, consisted of Frederick Cate pres., Arthur Y. Mitchell chairman, Charles C. Handy sec., Frank B. Lawler, Horace F. Fuller and Walter F. Splinney.

WHEAT

ARLINGTON WHEAT MEAL
Is the standard of purity. It will cure stomach troubles, relieve the fermentation caused by eating an overabundance of starchy food which causes indigestion.
The quality of the wheat used and the process of its manufacture are the secrets of its popularity. Rich in gluten and albumen, it furnishes a food that is almost perfect in nutrition. It is better than any other food.
It is the best food for infants and invalids.
It is the best food for the sick and the fasting. It is the best food for the elderly. It is the best food for the newly married. It is the best food for the whole family. It is the best food for the whole world.

was held Saturday afternoon.

The grounds are the site of the new Boston college buildings. Speeches were made by Rev. Thomas J. Grayson, S. J., president of Boston college.
Hon. Richard Sullivan, James Carney and Edward Brannon of Cambridge.
The guests viewed the sites of the various proposed buildings. Dancing followed.

Announcement was made that formal possession of the grounds as the future home of Boston college will be made tomorrow. The grounds are situated off Commonwealth avenue near South street.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

The western branch of the Sunday school union of the diocese of Massachusetts was held Tuesday afternoon and evening in the parish house of Grace church. In the afternoon the general theme, "The Home Department," was considered. Rev. Samuel W. Dike, secretary of the national league for the protection of the family, speaking on, "Beginning and Growth," and Rev. H. Grant Person of Elliot church on, "Practical Working." Rev. H. Dervees Roberts of Milton made an address on, "The Value of Dramatic Representations." Supper was served at 6.30 and at 8 o'clock Rev. Philip M. Rhineland of the Episcopal Theological school in Cambridge gave an address on "Dogmatic Teaching." The various discussions were participated in by Rev. Messrs.
Pine, Cole, Matteson and others.

DROWNE-HASBROUCK

St. Paul's church at Newton Highlands was the scene on Monday evening of an unusually pretty wedding when Miss Ethel M. Hasbrouck, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel L.
Eaton was married to Mr. Edwin S.
Drowne of Somerville.

Carl J. Thorsquist of Somerville presided at the organ and rendered several very pleasing selections while the guests were assembling.

The procession was led by ten choristers from the Church of the Advent, Boston, who sang "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden." Then to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin the bridal party advanced to the chancel, the ushers being Willard H. Eaton and Charles F. Johnson, Jr., of Newton Highlands. Robert Nichols of Somerville and Roger Blaney of Peabody.

The bridesmaids, Miss Nathalie Day of East Orange, N. J., Miss Nancy Adams of West Newton, Miss Harriette O'Donald of New York and Miss Alice Allen of Newton Highlands were dressed in white tulle silk trimmed with pink and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Mabel Noe of East Orange, N. J., a cousin of the bride. She wore pink net over pink silk and carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The bride was gowned in an imported lace robe trimmed with Brussels net, her veil being held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and her shower bouquet was of lilies of the valley. She was escorted by her father.

Mr. Drowne was attended by Vernon J. Hasbrouck, a brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Albert N. Slayton, rector of St. Paul's, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

As the bride and bridegroom advanced to the altar for the consummation of the service the choir sang
"O Perfect Love" and at the conclusion of the ceremony the organist played the familiar Mendelssohn's march as the party left the church; after which the choir retired singing an appropriate recessional hymn.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Eaton at 340 Lake avenue. The happy couple received their friends amid a mass of pink flowers interspersed with green vines, this color scheme being used throughout the house. They were assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. Eaton and Mrs. Drowne, the groom's mother.

Mrs. Eaton wore gray green Thraciau crepe, trimmed with point lace.
Mrs. Drowne was dressed in a rich black silk with rose point lace, and she carried a beautiful bouquet of orchids.

Guests were present from New York, Orange, New Jersey, Boston, Brookline and the Newtons.

The wedding gifts, which were of great number and much beauty and value, testified to the popularity of the young couple. The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a crescent brooch of pearls and diamonds.

After a wedding trip of a few weeks and a summer at the North Shore, Mr. and Mrs. Drowne will occupy the house now building for them in Fisher avenue, Newton Highlands.

5TH REGT. VETERAN ASSOCIATION

The Mass. 5th Regt. Veteran Association is to hold its annual Reunion in Newton on Saturday, June 20th.
This regiment was the first full armed and equipped regiment to enter Washington in April, 1861, and the first to cross the Long Bridge into Virginia.

It shed its first blood at the 1st Bull Run and some of its members left that battlefield for Libby Prison, one of the latter, Wm. C. Bates, is a resident of Newton and the first man wounded was James H. Griggs, whose daughter is a member of Elliot Church choir.

It will arrive in Newton about 11
A. M. and march to the home of the President, Alvin R. Bailey of Richardson street. From there it will return via Centre street and Nonantum square to the Cladin Guard Armory, where its meeting will be held.

It is suggested that the citizens on the line of march decorate their homes and places of business as a welcome to the veterans of 1861-1865.

SIDE LIGHTS ON WILLOW WORK.

Probably few of those who purchase willow furniture for their mountain or shore cottages, porch or veranda are aware that the use of the American Willow is impossible in first-class work. For some reason the American grown willow oslers are lacking in pliability and work with them is unsatisfactory.

The best Willow is imported from Northern France and Belgium where its growth is an important industry requiring expert care and knowledge of conditions in order to get the best results. The workmen who weave these willow chairs, tables, couches, swings, etc. are foreign born, coming mostly from Poland, Russia and Austria. They all learn the art when mere children and most of them fully understand the growing of willow oslers as well.

This delightfully cool and comfortable furniture is peculiarly appealing as the warm weather approaches and it is so easily kept clean that its sanitary features are worthy of thought.
A visit to some of the willow furniture factories would be an interesting and valuable experience.

DANFORTH HELD IN $1000.

Alfred C. Danforth, aged 29, living at Brighton, was held for the grand jury in $1000 in the police court, Friday, Judge Kennedy finding probable cause on a charge of uttering a forged instrument.

It was alleged that he withdrew some $40.73 from the Workmen's co-operative bank, Boston, belonging to Henry J. Woodberry; that he deposited the money in the Newton savings bank to his own account and later sent a boy to withdraw all but a small balance.

Danforth had been employed as a bookkeeper by Jesse Woodberry & Co., organ manufacturers, Boston. He entered a plea of not guilty. The case was continued several times, and on May 15 he was arrested upon leaving court here for the Brookline police.

HOOD'S MILK: Its Char-acter and Value as a Food

Hood's Milk is tested for its palatability by an approved hygienic method. It is also tested daily for wholesomeness and richness in our Chemical and Bacteriological Laboratory.

Its handling is kept under constant surveillance by Charles D.
Sawin, M. D., who will cheerfully furnish results of his inspections.
Our milk of the present high standard is an economical food which families of moderate income may freely purchase as a means of improving the character of the diet and of cheapening the cost of the supply of animal foods.
Criticism and suggestions will be gratefully received.

—The Brown Army, attacks the Blues. Hundreds of Newton citizens and a large sprinkling of the fair sex were on hand last Monday evening at Cabot park to witness the second problem in miniature warfare between the "Blue" and "Brown" army of the Clafin Guard.

—The Blue army under Lieut. Daniels moved out of the Army at about 8.25 o'clock heading directly for Cabot's woods where he was to establish his position.

—The Brown army under Lieut. Coulter moved out shortly afterwards, his object being to either capture the Blue army or drive it back to Mills street where an advance force of the Brown army was headed for, thus bringing the Blue army between two fires. One moving down from Newton Centre the other advancing from Cabot street.

—After establishing their lines the Commanders of both forces signaled their readiness and Capt. Guilford after inspecting both positions gave the command to commence hostilities, the bugles accordingly blowing, "Commence Firing."

—The right flank immediately came in contact with the Blues and some brisk firing went on for a few minutes. In the meantime a detachment of the Blue army under Sergt. Kerr attempting a movement on the left flank to divert attention from the main movement taking place on the right, but a detachment under Sergt. Regan and Corp. Reynolds held their positions and frustrated the attempt to turn the "Brown's" left flank.

—After some skirmishing on the right the Blues opened up with volley firing and then a portion of them fell back before the sharp firing of the Brown line. The right flank of the Brown army then through some mistake opened up a gap in their line, which was quickly taken advantage of by the Blues, by passing through and gaining Cabot street which was their ultimate object.

—This ended the maneuver and recall was sounded bringing all the Browns and Blues into one army.

—Lieuts. Coulter and Daniels then gave them an explanation of their movements and their reasons for making them after which Capt. Guilford gave his observations, and things to be corrected. The "company" was then marched back to the Army.

SECOND MEETING OF NEWTON W. C. T. U.

When a few devoted women started to organize the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union, they expected the response to be characteristic of Newton—stately, beautiful, dignified Newton. They have not been disappointed. Some opposition there has been, as there always is with every movement for good; but that the time was ripe for such an organization is demonstrated by the hearty response which has come from the brightest, most serious-minded women.

The second meeting of the organization was held Saturday evening, June 13, at the hospitable home of Mrs. W. E. Birdsall, and proved to be a very enjoyable and enthusiastic one. After the business of the meeting had been transacted, during which the lines of work to be taken up in the fall were outlined, the guests had the pleasure of listening to an address by Mrs. Stevenson, State President, who is shortly to go on a tour around the world. A social hour followed with refreshments. The next meeting will be taken up when the organization will prove its right to exist.

"For is not that the purpose of life? To be born, to grow, to be tended, Then to give a portion of our strength, That our brothers' hurts may be mended."

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

The class of 1928 Newton High School was graduated last Saturday afternoon before an audience which filled the large assembly hall of the building to overflowing. Diplomas were awarded 155 pupils, 90 girls and 65 boys. Dr. Spaulding, superintendent of schools, announced the prize winners in the Eliot essay competition as Miss Gladys L. Forbush, first and Miss Helen E. Dressler, second.

The exercises opened with a piano duet, "Poet and Peasant," by Miss Maude Chamberlain and Miss Edith Jones. Rev. Laurens MacLure, STD, rector of Grace church, offered prayer. Miss Miriam Fuller then gave the salutatory, "The High School—A Pupil's Point of View," which was followed by a paper by Charles R. Cabot on "Fair Play in College Athletics." Miss Marjorie T. Rice contributed a vocal solo, "Love Sings the Lark." Miss Eleanor Widger read a paper on "The Pearl of Happiness." John B. Whittlesey contributed "A Character Sketch." Miss Dorothy Burr and Miss Elsie Harrington gave a piano duet and Miss Lucy K. Robbins gave "What Dickens Did for Children." "The Influence of the Humorous Magazine" was an interesting paper by Miss Edith M. Baldes. Miss Julia Pickard contributed violin solos, after which the class history was given by Miss Elsie E. Parkinson. "America and the Future" was the subject of a paper by Charles H. Paul. Previous to announcement of the prize winners the class hymn was sung, the words being by Miss Marguerite Brant and the music by H. B. Willis. Diplomas were presented by Robert S. Gorham, chairman of the school board.

Messrs. Green and Rowe have already begun to secure attractions for the 1928 exposition in Mechanics Building. They have decided to continue the policy which they so successfully inaugurated last year—that of eliminating every catch-penny or fake device and having every show free.

This year, in their endeavor to outdo themselves they have gone clear to Mexico for an attraction. Within the past month Mr. C. H. Green has returned from the City of Mexico whence he had gone to secure what is universally recognized as the greatest band in the world—the wonderful Banda De Policia—the national band of Mexico. There are 97 musicians in this band which is controlled by the government. Never before in its history has this band left Mexico and it is only with the greatest difficulty that an acceptance of the invitation to visit Boston, was secured. Indeed it was necessary to secure the permission of no less a person than President Diaz, himself.

Accompanying the band will come the largest government exhibit that Mexico has ever sent out—larger by far than any shown at any of the Grand Hall and 14,000 square feet of space in Mechanics Building. Exhibits will be sent from all of the 22 states of Mexico.

Nor is this all. Still another free attraction will be Frank C. Bostock's exhibition of Trained Wild Animals—a show to which an admission of 50 cents is usually charged. Bostock, who is known from one side of the world to the other as "The Animal King" will bring his complete show from Earl's Court, London, to Boston and Grand Hall in Mechanics Building. This will be the largest wild animal show ever given in Boston and it will be absolutely free to those who visit the exposition.

Still another free attraction will be the colored motion pictures of Paul Revere's Ride which will be shown for the first time in Boston. And still other free attractions will be announced later.

GRAND BARBECUE.

There is but a short time intervening before the great Republican barbecue which is to be held at the Point of Pines July 16, and in this time the various committees of the gathering will be kept busy preparing the details for what promises to be the greatest political ratification ever held in New England.

Everything as originally outlined by the committees of the Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk and Plymouth clubs has been arranged with the exception of a few of the minor details, which are being taken up by the various sub-committees in charge.

The barbecue feature will not be the least interesting thing in connection with this has been given to Louis Aragon of Ponkapog, who has had considerable experience in this direction and the cooking and serving of several great oxen will be a sight of a lifetime. And this will not be all the repeat that will be provided. There will be an abundance to suit everybody.

The sporting feature of the day has not been lost sight of, and the amateur athletes of the state will find plenty to engage their attention. The sum of $1000 has been appropriated for this feature of the day and the events are to be run under the rules of the New England Amateur Athletic association, so that if any records are broken in the various competitions, as they are likely to be, the fortunate athletes will get the full benefit of their performances. The sports will begin promptly at 10 o'clock and will be under the direction of Walter Rapp of Bracon, who has had a wide experience in matters of this kind. He will have a competent corps of assistants. Another interesting feature is expected to be a ball game between the Essex and Middlesex clubs on the one side and the Norfolk and Plymouth on the other.

There is to be plenty of music. The Salem Cadet band will be playing all day and other leading musical organizations are to be engaged for the event. The speaking will commence at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The gathering is to bring to the Point of Pines all the big men in politics in New England, and many from outside. It is certain that Secretary Taft will be there if he is nominated at Chicago, as now seems probable. Coming fresh from the convention, with the impetus of the nomination behind him, his utterances upon this occasion will be noteworthy and will be listened to with eagerness by the great throng, while the entire country will be interested in what he has to say at this time. President Roosevelt has not yet said that he would be present but it is confidently expected that he will be there.

The number expected to be present is not much less than 50,000. Already 20,000 tickets have been disposed of and they are going rapidly.

JULY 4TH AT NEWTON CENTRE.

Arrangements have now been completed by the Improvement Association for an unusually fine evening program to be given at the Fourth of July celebration at Newton Centre. An elaborate display of fire-works will commence at eight o'clock on Crystal lake, and be set off from the southerly side of the lake, mid-way between Newton Centre and Newton Highlands, thus giving a fine view from all points. At seven o'clock sharp the well-known Waltham Watch Company band will give the following concert program, the bandstand being located at the usual place on the promenade.

HENRY E. COBB TABLET.

In the rear of the main auditorium of Eliot church, between the two central windows, and below the Eliot window a handsome tablet has been placed in the wall by the children of the late Hon. Henry Eddy Cobb.

On Sunday morning Rev. H. Grant Person took for the text of his sermon the words on the tablet, "He that doeth good is of God." At the close of the sermon Rev. Mr. Person spoke briefly of Mr. Cobb's work in Eliot church and read the resolutions which were passed by the church committee soon after his death. The inscription is as follows:

To the Glory of God and the Dear Memory of Henry Eddy Cobb
1839 1908
A christian Gentleman Loving beauty and Truth who for more than Fifty years gave loyal support to the Life and Work of this Church This City and the Kingdom of Christ
"He That Doeth Good is of God"
This Tablet is Given By His Children.

The world despises a cheat.
It ought to.
A man who cheats trades on the reputation of something or someone better than himself.
BUTTERNUT BREAD has many imitators.
This fact in itself proves its superiority. If it didn't excel it wouldn't be imitated.
What's the moral?
This—that worth, like truth, cannot be hidden.
Quality will find its way to the top and stay there. BUTTERNUT BREAD is an example.
Don't be cheated.
Be kind to your stomach—buy BUTTERNUT.

ELIOT PRIZES.

Announcement of the winners of the Eliot prizes, an annual event of much interest in the Newton public schools, was made last week by the superintendent, Dr. Frank E. Spaulding. The grammar school prizes, which were offered for the best essays, were awarded to Helen E. Cram and Angeline D. Hamblen, both pupils of the Bigelow school. Both wrote on the same subject: "The Myths and Folklore of the American Indian." The high school prizes were won by Gladys L. Forbush whose subject was "The Colonial Minister," and Helen E. Dressler who wrote on "The Jamestown Settlement." The judges were Mrs. B. E. Taylor, Rev. T. W. Bishop and G. R. Pulsifer.

BOSTON FOOD FAIR.

At the same place, which is to say, Mechanics Building, Boston, under the same auspices (The Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association) and under the same management as last year's phenomenal success (Messrs. C. H. Green and E. J. Rowe) the second annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition will be held from October 5 to 31, 1928.

Let the "Blue Bell Sign" Remind You—

OF THE ERRAND YOU FORGOT TO EXECUTE, and a ready way out of the difficulty.

OF THE ORDER YOU WERE ASKED TO DELIVER for your firm or for your home.

OF THE ENGAGEMENT FOR WHICH YOU HAVE BEEN DELAYED and of the quickest way of explaining your inability to meet it.

OF THE CALL YOU PROMISED TO MAKE, but failed to make, through forgetfulness.

Of a hundred ways in which, to use a quaint phrase, you may "LET YOUR HEAD SAVE YOUR HEELS."

Remember:

The sign indicates the presence of a Pay Station.

FROM ANY PAY STATION you may talk, at a reasonable charge, TO ANY OF 290,000 TELEPHONES connected with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company's system in the four northern New England states.

ALSO WITH TELEPHONES IN 30,000 CITIES AND TOWNS connected with the Long Distance lines of the great Bell system.

With such a convenience at hand is it fair to your friends to "borrow" their telephones? You are liable to impede their channels of communication by making their lines "busy" when others are trying to call them.

STEAMERS FOR BASS POINT.

The steamers Gov. Andrew and Gen. Lincoln are carrying many excursionists nowadays to Bass Point, Nahant, which facts attest the continued popularity of this breathing spot by the ocean.

Many new attractions are booked by the management this season and, together with the picturesque sail en route makes it one of the best days' outings for the summer months. Steamers leave Otis wharf, 408 Atlantic avenue (one minute's walk from wharf station, Boston Elevated), at frequent intervals during the day and evening.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS

Judge Kennedy had a busy session in the police court Monday morning. Groff Adamsky, 19, living at 50 Mechanic street, Upper Falls, arrested Sunday night by Patrolman Dugan on a charge of assault and battery, was fined $20.

Herbert Seeley of 9 Washington terrace, charged with violating a city ordinance by using profanity because several young men assembled in front of his shop and passed humorous remarks about the height of the heels on a pair of shoes in the window, was fined $5. Peter J. Hughes, charged with driving a load of lumber onto land of Miss Lucy Burr at Commonwealth avenue and Lexington street, Auburndale, where no trespassing signs had been placed, was fined $3.

Michael Kinchla and James A. Kearns, charged with assault and drunkenness, was fined $10 each on the drunkenness charges and had the assault charges dismissed.

John L. Sullivan of Newton Upper Falls, a familiar character in the police court, appeared before Judge Kennedy Monday morning on a charge of drunkenness. "I drank only half a water glass of liquor," said he. "Why didn't you fill it?" asked the court. "I hadn't eaten supper. If I had dined I would have probably filled the glass." He was sentenced to 30 days.

The first case of alleged violation of the bicycle law in many months was heard in the police court Wednesday, when Thomas Medaglio, 23, of 84 Border street, was charged with riding his bicycle on a sidewalk. He was fined $2.

Pulled out of a pond after having narrowly escaped drowning and then arrested on a charge of drunkenness was the experience of Daniel F. Sheehan, 46, a foreman living on Carter street, Needham, Tuesday night. Sheehan was found by boys struggling in the so-called "new" pond, just over the line at Newton Upper Falls. Had not a crowd of boys happened along in the nick of time it is believed he would have drowned. The boys assisted Sheehan down the street, where he was turned over to Patrolman Dugan. Finding him unable to navigate on land only little better than he had in the water, the policeman arrested him on a charge of drunkenness. Sheehan spent the rest of the night in police headquarters here. In court Judge Kennedy placed the case on file.

To one who has witnessed the nomination of common councilmen, aldermen, mayors, representatives, senators, councillors, congressmen and governors, the opportunity to see the recent Republican national convention name a presidential candidate, was not to be neglected. Thru the courtesy and assistance of Congressman Weeks and Senator Crane, arrangements were made by which I fondly imagined I would be in a position to see the "wheels go round." But a few hours in Chicago showed me that the "wheels" do not go round in national conventions, except in the seclusion of a hotel bedroom and within reach of a long distance telephone. Indeed one of the best bon mots heard at Chicago was "that while political conventions in the past have been run on a hurrish, this one is being run on a hello." But notwithstanding the cut and dried routine, the convention was decidedly interesting. Here were gathered the men, whose names are well known in the history of this country; senators, whose deeds and words have been heralded all over the United States, ambassadors from other countries, and last but not by any means least, the accredited delegates from the plain people of every portion of our great nation. Such a gathering could not help being interesting, even if its acts were of the most prosaic character.

The convention met in the Colli-seum, and arrangements were made to seat 12,000 persons. The decorations in the immense hall were simple, harmonious and artistic. Groups of flags were gracefully draped about the base of each of the supporting girders, bands of bunting were festooned along the balconies, and flags draped in effective clusters at each end of the building. A band stand was perched among the plexons at the far end of the structure and gave a program before each day's proceedings. A woman even ventured to sing from this lofty stand and a few notes could be heard on the speakers' platform.
The delegations were seated directly in front of the speakers' platform, which projected ten feet or more from the seats of the national committee.
The alternates sat directly back of the delegates and other than the stand at the back for distinguished guests and the press seats, the rest of the hall was filled with spectators.
I succeeded in obtaining a position on the press galleries, which flanked the speakers' platform on either side. For two days I was on the left of the chairman and for two days on his right. This gave me an excellent chance to observe the entire convention, far better than a reserved seat would have done.

The first day's proceedings were marked by a coldness which presaged a dull convention. Senator Burrows, temporary chairman, may have made an excellent speech, but no one fifty feet from the stand could hear him, and for an hour and a half the great crowd rustled and bustled about waiting for something interesting to happen. Rumors were current that night that the credentials committee would not be able to report the next day, but an all night session until 5:30 o'clock brought forth a report the next morning, which failed to arouse the strenuous opposition the Taft men had feared. So in a comparatively short time, Wednesday morning, our own senator, Henry Cabot Lodge was duly elected permanent chairman.

And his handling of that great audience, as well as his great speech made us all proud of Massachusetts, and of its senior senator. He certainly made an ideal chairman of that convention.
Senator Lodge delivered his speech in a voice which carried to the very ends of the building, and he held his audience to its very close. The outburst for President Roosevelt which interrupted his remarks for 47 notable minutes, began in a moderate round of applause, which, as the full significance of his words was felt by the crowd, swelled into an uproar which the senator at first vainly tried to quell and then, sat down and let the convention have its head. The noise did not seem so much in the nature of hand clapping or applause, as an immense roar, which rose and fell in waves of sound. Here a few men would chant together, "Four, four, four years more," in the alternates' seat, one man climbed upon the back of his chair, took off his coat and waved it frantically about his head, yelling meantime at top of his lungs.
Near the press seats, one man with wide spread newspapers in each hand, energetically flapped them about like wings, letting off war whoop after war whoop. Almost every one in the hall, save the delegates, was on his feet, and seemingly every one was making some kind of a noise, only stopping for breath. Mr. Lodge tried to stop the demonstration by signalling the band, but the crowd wouldn't have it and drowned out the music with yells and applause. Additional enthusiasm was injected into the crowd by the appearance of an immense Teddy bear, which was thrown about among the delegates and finally disappeared in Oklahoma. When the noise subsided so that it sounded more like the surf on a pebbly shore, Mr. Lodge would try to regain command and continue his speech, but he would be overwhelmed with the rising volume of noise which his attempt would start. As a matter of fact, he was speaking again fully five minutes, before the noise lessened enough to allow those in the press seats to hear what he was saying. It was a great demonstration, indicating the hold the President has on the average man, and, like everything else Rooseveltian, broke all records of its kind.

Another interesting feature of the Wednesday session was the debate on the report of the committee on rules, embodying the basis of representation at the next national convention. Congressman Burke of Pennsylvania made a gallant attempt to have the Massachusetts plan adopted by the convention. This gives each district the number of delegates to which its vote for President would entitle it. It was opposed of course by those states, principally in the South, whose representation and consequent influence in future conventions would be reduced. A fair illustration of the present unjust system is indicated by the fact that Texas, which never cast an electoral vote for Republican candidates, has a larger delegation at Republican national conventions than Massachusetts, which has always been loyal to the party. The debate was keen and bright with the honors al-lened and bright with the honors al-lened with Mr. Burke, but political expediency prevailed and Ohio, which evidently feared possible resentment from its allies in the south, voted but 8 votes in favor of Mr. Burke's plan and 28 against. This defection of Ohio defeated the amendment by a narrow margin and Massachusetts will still continue to be outvoted by Texas in our national convention.

Thursday found a change in the weather, which up till then had been cool and comfortable. A hot, high wind directly off the prairie, with a rapidly rising humidity, combined with a crowd estimated at 17,000, to make the interior of the Coliseum a most uncomfortable place. The session lasted for seven hours with no intermission for lunch. The platform, about which everyone had predicted a sharp fight, proved to be almost unanimous, a few planks causing debate and the committee sustained by large majorities. All this took time however, and it was nearly three o'clock before nominations were made. All of the nomination speeches were too long, the orators failing to recognize the physical condition of that sweltering mass of humanity, and described the virtues of their several candidates in long winded sentences. Speaker Cannon was named by Congressman Boutwell and received a scant two minutes of applause. Then Gov. Hanly of Indiana took the stand for Mr. Fairbanks. Mr.
Hanly is long, lean, lank and wore a frock coat which came below his knees. He was given respectful attention at first, and a peculiar man-nerism of striking one palm with the other hand to emphasize his sentences was unnoticed. He mentioned first this state and then that in an eulogistic manner, and soon after began calling these states all over again.

Then the crowd began to show signs of impatience, calling upon him to name his candidate, to "shut up" and many other similar expressions. A war in the audience then imitated his mannerisms as stated above. The next time he struck his hands together fully 500 persons were waiting to do the same thing and then giggled hysterically over it. And then the whole audience caught the idea and for the next few minutes, Gov. Hanly had 10,000 persons waiting anxiously for him to strike his hands together and laughing over the fusillade of clapping which followed. It does not strike one as particularly funny when read in cold type, but in that large hot hall, it was just the thing needed to break the tired tension of many thousand spectators, and it was ridiculously funny. The best of the joke was the fact that Gov. Hanly did not appreciate what was going on, and stood there in the confusion, shaking his head and continually striking his hands together as he continued his speech. The other nominating speeches were mediocre in quality, that of Congressman Burton being given the best attention. The 25 minutes of applause which greeted his mention of the Taft, was pretty good considering the afternoon, and came mostly from the delegates. During the excitement, Texas thrust a large pair of trousers into the air on a large stick, bearing the inscription "As pants the hart for cooling streams, so Texas pants for Taft." A large picture of Taft was brought in and marched about the hall, and other means adopted to keep up the enthusiasm. Senator La Follette's name was presented by a Mr. Cooks of Wisconsin, who gave the best speech of the day. His sentences were short and bright. His voice was good, and if he had known enough to stop at the right point, he would have made the bit of the day. But he, too, was far too long and the end of his speech, was lost in the confusion made by the crowd. Many newspapermen made a mistake in reporting the enthusiasm which followed the end of the La Follette speeches as being for that statesman. It is true that La Follette got a few minutes of applause but the vast audience wanted Roosevelt and were determined to delay the balloting until that idea could be emphasized. For over twenty minutes the hall was filled with continual applause, rising and falling as on Wednesday, but greeting Roosevelt's pictures which were occasionally displayed from the front gallery with prolonged shouts and applause. A large flag with the President's picture was received with tremendous enthusiasm. Mr. Lodge finally directed the calling of the roll by megaphone and order was not obtained until Iowa was reached in the list of states. Mr.
Taft's nomination was made by a large majority, but the delegates were too tired and hungry to applaud long and the session closed almost immediately.

One of the interesting incidents of the day was the sight of the Hon.
James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britain, eating apple pie off a paper plate with a tin spoon in the rot over clean lunch room in the basement of the building.

On Friday, vice presidential nominations were in order, and barring the appearance of Uncle Joe Cannon, who seconded the nomination of Sherman, would have been very dull. Mr. Cannon danced about the platform in true exhorter fashion, his coat sleeve caught up by his cuff and waving his arms like a windmill. Senator Lodge yielded the chair to a colored man, while he nominated Gov. Guild, and the whole affair was soon over and the convention adjourned sine de before noon.

While the convention, itself was interesting, the crowds at the hotels and the enthusiasm manifested in the corridors for this candidate or that were well worth attention. A glea club of 100 voices imparted a novelty each evening by singing in the different hotel lobbies, and singing well, too.
They had some capital songs for Taft and were followed about by large crowds. The Massachusetts headquarters were excellently located, ext door to the Cannon headquarters, where a good band played each afternoon and evening. Secretary Charles S. Groves had worked long and well over the decorations and the result was highly creditable to him. All the candidates kept open rooms and the crowds surged thru them looking and asking for buttons, badges and souvenirs of all kinds. Bands paraded the streets, marching clubs in all kinds of headgear shouted for their friends and it was long after midnight before the excitement died down.

The Guild movement for vice president was a great mistake. It was born in personal vanity and nurtured by the Democratic Boston Post. It never had a chance to succeed and no one knew that fact better than the delegates from Massachusetts. It was a great mistake for the state to back such a candidacy and Massachusetts lost prestige in the attempt.

This rambling story ought not to close without a tribute to the work of Senator Crane. His influence on the convention was noticeable. He does not stand in the limelight of publicity, but every loyal Massachusetts man should be proud of the standing and influence of our junior senator in national affairs.

VETERANS HERE

About 125 members attended an annual reunion of the Massachusetts 5th regiment veteran association Saturday afternoon. The exercises included a reception at the home of the retiring president, dinner in the local armory and election of new officers.

Upon their arrival the members marched to the music of a band to the home of President Alvin R. Bailey on Richardson street, where there was an informal reception. The dwelling was decorated with national flags.
Mrs. Bailey assisted in receiving.
The gathering then marched to the armory of Claflin guard, Co. C, 5th regt., M. V. M., on Washington street, where at 1 o'clock dinner was served.

After the menu had been thoroly discussed, president Bailey welcomed the veterans to the city and then presented Adjutant Eustis as toastmaster. Col. Oaks responded for the Fifth Regiment, Lieut. G. H. Daniels for Company C, Lieut. Henry D.
Degen, an ex alderman spoke for the city. C. H. Abbott of Co. K, read some interesting verses, and Mr. William C. Bates of this city gave reminiscences of prison life in Libby. Judge Baker of Providence, R.I. and President elect Wyman and vice president elect Griggs also spoke. Music was furnished between the speeches by a band. After the meeting the veterans marched to the railroad station where the train was taken for Boston.

This well known regiment was the first full armed one to enter Washington in April, 1861, and the first to cross Long bridge into Virginia, and the members consequently had an interesting fund of wartime stories.
New officers were elected as follows:
B. F. Wyman, Lancaster, president; Capt. J. H. Griggs, Sonerville, vice president; George E. Mitchell, Chelsea, secretary; Alvin R. Bailey, Newton, treasurer; Horace W. Otis, Brightfield, Me., and George E. Mitchell, Chelsea, delegates to dedication of the Massachusetts monument at New-berne, N. C.

THE FOOD FAIR

Did you ever see a elephant walk a tight rope? Unless you have been down to Coney Island this summer you must surely admit that you have not, for never before Frank C. Bostock, "The Animal King," discovered Blondin, has such a pachydermin been heard of. Indeed it seems hard to believe that a beast so huge as the elephant, could do so daintily a trick as tight rope walking is supposed to be.

Blondin is a remarkable example of the extent of perfection to which an elephant can be trained. His accomplishments are not confined to tight rope walking. He plays music, waltzes, reads for gives a good imitation of it, stands on his hands—pardon, his forepaws—juggles with his trunk, counts numbers up to almost any amount, distinguishes colors and it is even said that he laughs—something which seems equally removed from the elephantine disposition as tight rope walking.

Blondin is delighting thousands of people every day at Frank Bostock's Coney Island, and next Fall New Englanders will have an opportunity of seeing him for he is coming to Boston as a feature of Frank Bostock's Animal Show which is to be one of the free attractions of the great New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition to be held at Mechanics Building during the month of October.

The New England Exposition at Mechanics Building will without question be the greatest Food Fair ever seen in this part of the country. It is under the same management and auspices (The Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association) as last year's great success and it is to be held in the great Mechanics Building, the place where Food Fairs have been held from the very beginning.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The final round of the Spring handicap tournament at the Waban tennis courts was played off in the broiling heat of Saturday and after a stubborn match lasting over two hours and a half, E. H. Robinson defeated A. C. Turner by a score of 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1.

THE MARINER'S COMPASS.

Influences That Draw It From Its Allegiance to the Pole.

Nothing in the navigational equipment of a ship has been the subject of more anxious research or receives more jealous care than the mariner's compass.

The popular notion of the compass needle always pointing north and south is—well, more inaccurate than even popular notions usually are. Even under the most favorable conditions there are only certain places upon the surface of the earth where the compass needle does point north and south, and it is quite safe to say that such conditions are never found on board of any ship.

But we must go further and say that no more unfavorable position could be found for a compass than on board of a modern steamship, which is a complicated mass of steel, all tending to draw the compass needle from its allegiance to the magnetic pole of the earth, warring influences which must needs be counteracted by all sorts of devices which hedge round the instrument by an invisible wall of conflicting currents of magnetism.

And as if this were not enough there are now huge dynamos to be reckoned with, producing electric currents for all sorts of purposes on board. In the midst of these mystic currents the poor little compass needle, upon which the mariner depends for his guide across the trackless deep, hangs suspended like one shrinking sail surrounded by legions of devils—Windsor Magazine.

Martian Life Dying.

A sadder interest attaches to such existence—that it is, comically speaking, soon to pass away. To our eventual descendants life on Mars will no longer be something to scan and interpret. It will have lapsed beyond the hope of study or recall. Thus to us it takes on an added glamour from the fact that it has not long to last. For the process that brought it to its present pass must go on to the bitter end until the last spark of Martian life goes out. The drying up of the planet is certain to proceed until its surface can support no life at all. Slowly, but surely, time will snuff it out. When the last ember is thus extinguished the planet will roll a dead world through space, its evolutionary career forever ended.—Professor Lowell in Century.

Doctors' Bills.

Who, having obtained an honest bill for the medicine, will wish to have particulars of the doctor's "professional services?" Imagine a bill made up with such nicety as this: "To counting pulse, sixpence; to viewing tongue, threepence; to asking four questions (three irrelevant), fourpence; to telling patients to say 'ninety-nine,' eightpence; to medicine, 1s. 6d.; to bottle, twopenny; to label, 1 penny; total, 3s. 6d."—Yorkshire Observer.

Advantage of Credit.

"My big sister has a beau."
"So's mine, but I don't like him."
"Know what my sister 'd do if I didn't like her beau?"
"No. What'd she do?"
"She'd send him back and get him changed, 'cause we've got a charge account at the store he comes from."—Newark Evening Star.

Different Opinions.

"I see a man intends to let a rattlesnake bite him and depend on prayer for a cure. I call that faith."
"I call it cruelty to animals unless somebody's going to pray for the snake after it's bitten such a fool as that."—Philadelphia Ledger.

NEWTON CLUB TO CLOSE.

In a special meeting of the Newton club last night 75 members unanimously voted, after earnest discussion lasting more than two hours, to close up the affairs of the organization and abandon the magnificent clubhouse.

This vote was brought about principally because of lack of interest caused by the establishment of numerous other clubs within this city.

A committee consisting of Pres. Charles S. Dennison, Stephen W. Holmes and E. P. Hatch was named to bring the affairs of the club to a close. It was decided to formally disband the club June 30.

Last year the club ran behind financially. It is stated, and there was no prospect of an improvement this year. When the club was at the height of its popularity the membership numbered between 400 and 500 of the most prominent residents of this city. When other clubs were built throughout the city the membership began to dwindle until there are now less than 250 members.

Pres. Charles S. Dennison presided over the meeting while the members gathered about card tables in the large hall on the upper floor and with paper and pencils figured out the financial situation. A number of plans of prolonging the life of the club had been proposed, but a motion was finally put that the club disband at the end of the present month and the vote was unanimous. Ex-Congressman Powers, Matt B. Jones, Charles E. Hatfield and Mayor Hutchinson, the latter being a member, were prominent in the proceedings.

After the meeting a number of members said that possibly next autumn a movement might be started to revive the club. There is genuine regret throughout the city because of the financial embarrassment of the club.

The Newton club is the oldest club in this city, and for upward of a score of years was widely known. In uniting the various wards socially it played a prominent part in the development of Newton into a city instead of an aggregation of villages.

The club was organized in the autumn of 1837 as a result of a neighborhood chat between Ex-Congressman Powers and William J. Follett.

GALLAGHER-MORRISEY

Miss Anna Louise Morrisey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Morrisey of Boyd street, Newton, and Mr. James C. Gallagher of Nonantum were married on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock by Rev. James F. Kelley of the Church of Our Lady. The bride wore a white lingerie dress and hat of silk dotted tulle with white plumes and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Elizabeth Morrisey, her sister, was maid of honor and a light blue silk batiste with trimmings of valencienne lace, a light blue hat and carried carnations. The bride was given away by her father. The best man was Mr. E. Ambrose Gallagher and the ushers were Messrs. Edward and Frank Morrisey. A reception followed at the Morrisey residence from 11 till 2 o'clock at which the bridal couple were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Morrisey and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Gallagher. After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher will reside at Mt. Fern avenue, Brighton, where they will be at home after Sept. 1st.

Sherman, the large brick and stone apartment house known as the "Warren," 337 Washington street, corner of Channing street, Newton. The property consists of a 4 story building containing 12 suites and standing on 5381 square feet of land, the whole property assessed for $40,000.

Alvord Bros. have leased 62 Page road, Newtonville, the property of the Judkins estate, to Mr. P. J. Evans, of Waltham. Mr. Evans will occupy as soon as the improvements, now in progress, are completed.

Alvord Bros. have leased 43 Highland avenue, Newtonville, the property of Mr. Bert E. Kemp, to Mr. William H. Emond, of Otis place. Mr. Emond has already taken occupancy.

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstances or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson. For particulars and rates, address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 6t 252 Green St., Cambridge.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

A farewell reception was given in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church of Auburndale, Thursday evening to wish Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Bragdon of Lasell Seminary god-speed—for they left today for California.

The church was artistically decorated with ferns, palms and the beautiful crimson rambler, while the refreshment tables were daintily set in the back parlor of the church.

Music, furnished by the young people of the church, Miss Marion Dillingham, Miss Olive Bourne, Mr. W. J. Spaulding, with Mrs. W. F. Hall, as accompanist.

Speeches were enjoyed by Bishop Malleau, and President Huntington of Boston University, while Mr. R. G. Elliott, president of the Men's Club, under whose auspices the reception was given, presided.

Before the refreshments were served, a beautiful bouquet of white roses were presented to Mrs. Bragdon, and Dr. Bragdon received a unique and pleasing set of Resolutions in which his departure was deeply regretted and wishes for happiness and contentment extended to both himself and Mrs. Bragdon.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL CLOSES

Because there are no fire escapes on the building closing exercises of the parochial school of the Church of Our Lady could not be held in the school hall, as had been customary, and diplomas were presented at solemn vespers in the church last evening.

There were 61 graduates, eight from the high school grades and 53 grammar pupils. Diplomas were awarded by Rev. Fr. Thomas I. Gasson S.J., president of Boston college, who preached the sermon to the graduates. After complimenting them upon their excellent showing in all branches of the academic work Fr. Gasson offered sound advice and kindly counsel.

Rev. James F. Kelley, assistant pastor, was celebrant of the solemn vespers; Rev. Charles J. Galligan, assistant pastor of St. Bernard's church, West Newton, deacon, and Rev. A. S. Malone subdeacon. In the sanctuary was Rev. Michael Dolan P.R. pastor of the church. While there was singing by the pupils the usual program of declamations was not given.

The graduates in the high school class included Thomas F. Hanron of the classical course and Martin J. Muse, Mary J. Daly, Irene C. Morrison, William F. Delaney, Helen Campbell, Katherine B. Condon and John S. Flanagan of the commercial course.

The last session of the board of aldermen before the summer vacation, was held last Monday night and lasted until midnight, as many important matters were presented and considered by committees at recess meetings. President Weston was in the chair and Aldermen Avery, Bacon, Bosson, Cabot, Clarke, Converse, Doherty, Gray, Holmes, Jones, Leonard, Miller, Palmer, Stone, Underwood and White were present. Hearings were held on making attachments on Fair Oaks avenue and on Beacon street by the Telephone Co. and on taking land for laying out of Orris st., Newell road, Washburn ave. under the betterment act and on the widening of Highland st., at which no one appeared.

Mr. John A. Potter favored the taking of land for sewer in Rockwood terrace on account of sanitary conditions and Mrs. Lilla Bourne remonstrated against it. Later in the session orders granting all the above matters were adopted, $8800 being appropriated for street construction on Orris st., Newell road, Washburn ave., Chaske st., Kaposia and Winona streets.

Public Buildings Commissioner Elder reported that the necessary alterations in the heating and ventilation of the old Hyde school house and enlarging its hall would cost $3600 and this sum was appropriated.

Hearings on Sept. 14 were assigned on petitions of S. E. Nugent to remove tree No. Prospect st., M. J. Pinkham to remove trees, Richardson st., of the Gas Light Co. to rebuild pole line on Nahant st., of the Telephone Co. for locations on Eddy st. and for attachments on Kimball terrace and of the Marine Mfg. Co. to keep and sell gasoline, 1210 Washington st.

Petitions of Abraham Lutz for junk license, Wm. Fahey for wagon license and liquor transportation permit, of Charles Scipione for an auctioneer license, and of J. F. Flanagan to remove two buildings to Jackson road were granted.

These petitions were referred:—H. E. Merritt for sewer in Kimball terrace, A. J. McDonald and the Newton Savings Bank for sewers in Loring st., Irving C. Paul relative to swimming in Crystal lake, Wm. Q. Gulliver for transfer of pool table license from High to Lincoln sts., J. S. Troy and Wm. Young for wagon licenses and liquor transportation permits, O. D. Purdy for damages caused by erection of grandstand on Lowell ave., of C. H. Noyes Adm. for return of taxes, and of A. H. Brown for relocation of Saxon terrace. Petition of Mrs. Ellen R. Miller relative to Common Victrola license in Nonantum square was received.

On recommendation of committees, $500 was appropriated for settlement of claim of F. O. Stewart, and $25 for settling claim of J. M. Fitzgerald, water mains were ordered in Loring, Ballard, Arlington sts. and in Kimball terrace, a grant of $122,734.65 made for city expenses to Sept. 15, orders authorizing issue of $355,000 Technical High School loan, and $90,000 Sewer bonds were amended in small particulars, the Telephone Co. granted attachments on Pleasant st., locations on Grant ave. and on Linwood ave., and permission given it to remove poles on Beacon st., and orders granting locations and relocations on Linwood ave. were rescinded, street watering was ordered on Temple and Fuller sts., $350 appropriated for placing fire gongs in school buildings, culverts ordered constructed on Laundry brook, and an ordinance relating to location of poles was passed to be ordained.

The report of the Finance committee disapproving construction of plank sidewalk on Beacon st., Wabon, was recommended. The matter of renting the Froebel school for another year was referred to the Public Buildings Commissioner, and further time was granted the Finance committee to consider the proposed purchase of the Cousen's block property for park purposes.

Licenses were granted to keep and sell gasoline to C. A. Person, Columbia st., Walter L. Wedger, Clyde st., H. W. Orr Co., Washington st., S. H. Fessenden, Essex road, James Ford, Commonwealth ave. and M. F. Lucas, Lucas st., the common victrola license of Daniel Queen was transferred to Boylston st., leave to withdraw was granted Max Silverman on petition for junk license, and the junk license of Davis Bronfman, and the wagon license and liquor transportation permit of Giacomo DeLuca were revoked for cause. On recommendation of the Committee, the mayor's veto of the liquor transportation permit of C. H. Keefe was sustained.

A portion of Forest ave. near Otis street was accepted as a highway and the street lines of Centre and Clark street were altered slightly. Orders were also adopted authorizing issue of $500,000 in temporary loans, instructing city treasurer to mark all bonds with statement that they were exempt from taxation in Massachusetts, and making certain assessments for expenses of removing gypsy and brown tall moths.

A recess of nearly three hours was held during the evening for committee work and conferences and at 11:50 P. M. adjournment was made until Sept. 14th.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Biennial is on in full force, women by the thousands have poured into Boston and filled it to overflowing. The number of delegates reported by the Credential committee at the business session on Wednesday reached 1116 and the alternates 596. These figures, however, represent but a small proportion of the visiting club women, the number being variously estimated from 3000 to 5000. The registration committee was swamped with business on Monday, but at length order was brought out of chaos and the business of the convention is moving on smoothly.

The Biennial was formerly opened on Tuesday evening by addresses of welcome, followed by an address by Mrs. Dimble T. S. Denison, Honorary President of the General Federation, on "The Long Path" and one by Prof. Charles Zuehlke on "Democracy and Culture." Wednesday morning was given up to routine business and reports of committees.

Mrs. Decker, in giving her report as president, said that she had no word but of happiness and satisfaction as she reviewed the events and achievements of the General Federation of Women's clubs for the past two years. Steadily, forcibly, and surely the Federation has progressed. The loyalty of the State Federations to the larger organization has been one of the great sustaining forces. Every suggestion which the General Federation has made has been met with a reciprocal spirit by the States, by the departments and by individual clubs.

Mrs. Decker reviewed briefly the work and accomplishment of some of the departments and made suggestions for the continuation of efforts that have in the past been successful. Among the recommendations which Mrs. Decker made were the following: That the household economic department of the General Federation be dropped, as its work is something that cannot be conducted successfully by a national body, but that State federations continue their committees under that name. She suggested that the library extension and the literature committees become one department, and that the reciprocity committee be merged in the bureau of information. If the latter department is continued, she suggested that the pure food committee be changed to one on sanitation, as the question is now one of clean food more particularly.

Mrs. Decker advised that the city committee be divided into two departments, one to be called civics, the other a health committee, with especial interest in the tuberculosis problem. These matters will come up for discussion at the meeting next Saturday morning.

The evening session in charge of the literature committee was largely attended in spite of the heat and storm, but no overflow meeting was necessary. The program included violin selections by Miss Loraine Johnson of Providence, a neglected daughter of a club woman, "to quote Mrs. Decker's word of introduction, and addresses by Edward H. Clement of the Boston Transcript on "Journalism and Intellectuals" and by Thomas Nelson Page on "Parochialism in Literature."

On Thursday morning further reports of committees were presented followed by sessions on Civics, Art and Pure Food. In the afternoon receptions and garden parties were the order of the day, Governor and Mrs. Gould assisted by Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Draper received at the State House. In the evening came the reports of the State Presidents. The music is a special attraction of all the sessions. Today has been given up to the Rhode Island Federation and is known as Rhode Island Play Day. The evening session is in charge of the Forestry committee and promises a treat for all nature lovers. Detailed reports will be given next week.

Lower Falls.

—Hazel Berry, the 8-year old daughter of Mr. George Berry of Columbia street met with an accident Tuesday afternoon in which she fractured her leg in three places. While her father was fishing in the Charles river from the aqueduct bridge at Cedar street, she fell 20 feet and struck on the embankment. Fortunately she did not fall into the river. After being attended by a doctor she was removed to the Newton hospital.

—General Superintendent Brush, Assistant Superintendent Sylvester and a number of other officials of the Natick & Cohasset street railway company spent 12 hours last Sunday on duty at the various turnouts at Lower Falls and west of here keeping the heavily laden cars on smooth running time. As a rule the turnouts are situated three minutes running time apart, but in order to keep a good schedule when the cars are run on 10-minute time, which is now frequent, officials say a new turnout is needed on the Washington street hilltop near Florence avenue. Because of the absence of a turnout there, they say, three minutes is lost now on every trip when effort is made to maintain 10-minute time.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The June meeting was held Wednesday evening with Mr. Gorham in the chair and nine other members present. The Secretary was instructed to have the school census taken in the usual manner.

These teachers were appointed for the Nonantum Vacation school: Hope R. Mudge, cooking, Elizabeth Johnston, physical training, Constance Caverly, assistant, Bessie Harthorne, assistant kindergarten, Hannah Tibbets, assistant primary, and Elizabeth Jackson, assistant. The following teachers were appointed: High school, Gertrude Myers, French, Horace Kidger, history, Eleanor Buckingham, English, Susie M. Jordan, Latin, Blanche L. Daniels, mathematics and science, Dorothy Waldo, assistant English, Anne H. Upton, Bigelow R. Ethel Vogler, Clafin 5, Gertrude I. Bigelow, Clafin 1, Hope Kelsey, Peirce 6, Mary J. Trull, Davis 3, Jessie E. West, Emerson school, special assistants, Ruth McGlashan, Lucy E. Woodward, Charlotte R. Kingman, Marion Gibbs, Anne L. Brackett, Marion Gibbs, M. V. Murray, manual training, Evelyn Whitlow, manual training, Jeannie Kenrick, cooking. The resignations of Grace Hill, Peirce school, and Marion Marsh, Davis school, were accepted and leave of absence granted Margaret Martine, Rice school, and Max L. Butler, Clafin school. Elizabeth Wakefield, Bessie Harthorne, Alice Barbour, Helen Hardison and Elizabeth Bostwick were appointed kindergarten and assistants.

The Thompsonville school was renamed the "Bowen School."

The matter of school sessions was fully discussed, and it was finally voted to adopt the Newton Centre plan of school sessions at all schools in the city making the system uniform.

Dr. Frank E. Spaulding was unanimously re-elected superintendent for another year at his present salary.

The board of aldermen was asked to install a blower in the High school gymnasium at an expense of $500, and plans for proposed alterations in the old Hyde school house were approved.

Action was deferred on establishing school lines for the new Stearns school.

John Donahue has been re-elected captain of the baseball team for next year.

Frank L. Converse has been appointed business manager of the Review for next year and Chauncey Dowd has been chosen for assistant business manager.

The captains and managers of this year met on last Friday and elected the following undergraduates to serve on the athletic committee for next year: Scott Slocum, Frank Converse and John Donahue.

The senior class of the high school attended services Sunday morning at the First Universalist church, Newtonville, when the pastor, Rev. Albert Hammett, preached the baccalaureate sermon. Rev. Mr. Hammett paid high tribute to the Newton high school as an educational institution.

The annual senior party was held Saturday evening at the home of Charles E. Hatfield, 108 Cherry street, West Newton. The grounds were prettily decorated. The class statistics were read by Carl Holbrook. Particularly amusing was the prophecy read by Theodore Tewksbury.

By defeating Melrose high in three straight matches in singles and one in doubles, Newton high school yesterday won the championship of the Boston interscholastic tennis league on the Neighborhood courts at West Newton.

THE BOWEN SCHOOL

At a meeting of the School Board Wednesday night a petition was received containing names of 100 residents of Thompsonville, requesting that the school in that district be named "Bowen School" in memory of the late Edwin B. Bowen, father of Ex-Alderman of that name.

Mr. Bowen, Sr. was in 1870 one of the Deacons of the Baptist church of our village, and established a Sunday school in the old chapel in Thompsonville. From this school later developed the day school, and from this nucleus the present Thompsonville school was made possible. He was especially interested in the people of this district, and was loved and admired by them all. It is especially fitting that this school be named for him.

BOYNTON—GUBBINGS

The marriage of Mr. Perkins Boynton, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Boynton of Newtonville, to Miss Josephine Gubbings of Philadelphia, took place Wednesday, June 17, at the Gettysburg Baptist church of Philadelphia, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The maid of honor was Miss Carroll Meeser of Philadelphia, a niece of the bride, and the best man was Mr. Ralph Hendrickson of Patterson, N. J. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Spencer B. Meeser, D. D., a brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. J. Henry Hasham, D. D., the pastor of the church. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. James Gubbings. Mr. and Mrs. Boynton will make their home in Patterson, N. J.

BAKER—SMITH

Two families prominent in Newton Lower Falls were united last evening when Miss Marion L. Smith, daughter of Mrs. Louise E. Smith, became the bride of Frank D. Baker, son of Ex-Alderman and Mrs. Peter C. Baker. The ceremony was performed in the Methodist church, Rev. E. H. Thrasher officiating. The bride wore a white silk gown trimmed with duchess lace. Miss Stella Smith, her cousin, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Laura Baker, Miss Marion Mitchell and Miss Caroline Wilson. The best man was Edward Temple, and the ushers were George Wilson, Fred Wales and Ronald Beck. A reception followed at the home of the bride, Cornell street, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Johnson assisting.

BROWN—COOKE

Miss Annie Bertha Cooke, the daughter of Mr. John W. Cooke of Newtonville, was married to Mr. George Warner Brown of Tyne Valley, P. E. I., at her home on Bowers street last week Wednesday evening the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. F. Snell of West Newton. The bride wore a princess gown with court train, made of white mousseline de soie, and trimmed with German valences lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Beatrice MacAusland of Tewksbury as bridesmaid, wearing pale blue silk muslin trimmed with white net lace and carrying a bouquet of pink sweet peas, and by Alice French Gulliland of Lowell as ring bearer, and Helen Ayer and Ruth Cooke as flower girls. Mr. W. O. Cooke of Newtonville was the best man and Dr. W. J. MacAusland of Quincy, and Messrs. William T. Douglas of Providence and Guy H. Ayer of Allston were the ushers. The double ring service was used and the musical program was under the direction of Miss Ilva Crandall of Providence, R. I.

MICK—STETSON

Two prominent Oak Hill families were united in marriage on Wednesday evening when Miss Ruth Marion Stetson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Stetson of Dedham street, became the wife of Mr. Wendell R. K. Mick of Parker street. The ceremony took place in the Stetson home at eight o'clock in a bower of palms, roses, pinks and twining vines of sweet peas. Rev. Maurice A. Levy of the First Baptist church, Newton Centre, officiating.

The bride wore princess point lace over chiffon tulle, and was veiled in muslin de soie, inset with medallions of Irish crochet. She was attended by Miss Alma E. Mick of Oak Hill, as maid of honor, wearing pink messaline over pink tulle, trimmed with flax lace and pink silk tassels. The best man was Mr. Everett C. Winslow of Providence, R. I., and the ushers were Messrs. Harry Tower of Newton, Albert E. Hall of Needham, Franklin Joiner of New Brunswick, N. J. and Willard H. Eaton of Newton Highlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Mick will be at home after October 1st at their residence in Newton Centre.
